Table of Contents

Preface..........................................................................................................................................................xii

Section 1
Ethical Boundaries of Humans and Robots

Chapter 1
Redefining the Boundaries of Humanity and the Human Body: From Homo Sapiens to Homo
Technicus .................................................................................................................................................... 1
José M. Galván, Pontificia Università della Santa Croce, Italy
Rocci Luppicini, University of Ottawa, Canada

Chapter 2
The Relevance of Value Theory for the Ethical Discussion of Human Enhancement .................. 11
Tobias Hainz, Hannover Medical School, Germany

Chapter 3
Personal Liability and Human Free Will in the Background of Emerging Neuroethical Issues:
Some Remarks Arising from Recent Case Law up to 2013................................................................. 27
Angela Di Carlo, Scuola Superiore Sant’Anna of Pisa, Italy
Elettra Stradella, University of Pisa, Italy

Chapter 4
Artificial Ethics: A Common Way for Human and Artificial Moral Agents and an Emergent
Technoethical Field.................................................................................................................................. 41
Laura Pană, Polytechnic University of Bucharest, Romania

Chapter 5
Of Robots and Simulacra: The Dark Side of Social Robots .............................................................. 66
Pericle Salvini, Istituto di BioRobotica, Italy

Chapter 6
Technoethics: Nature and Cases .............................................................................................................. 77
Peter Heller, Manhattan College, USA
Section 2
Un/Ethical Waves in Cyberspace

Chapter 7
Sacrificing Credibility for Sleaze: Mainstream Media’s Use of Tabloidization ................................................. 97
Jenn Burleson Mackay, Virginia Tech, USA
Erica Bailey, Pennsylvania State University, USA

Chapter 8
Internet Companies and the Great Firewall of China: Google’s Choices .......................................................... 113
Richard A. Spinello, Boston College, USA

Chapter 9
The Legal Challenges of the Information Revolution and the Principle of “Privacy by Design” ..... 128
Ugo Pagallo, University of Turin, Italy

Chapter 10
Gambling with Laws and Ethics in Cyberspace ........................................................................................................ 149
Lee Gillam, University of Surrey, UK
Anna Vartapetiance, University of Surrey, UK

Chapter 11
A Study of Cyber Crime and Perpetration of Cyber Crime in India ................................................................. 171
Saurabh Mittal, Asia Pacific Institute of Management, India
Ashu Singh, Asia Pacific Institute of Management, India

Section 3
New Waves in Cyberspace

Chapter 12
Ethics, Media, and Reasoning: Systems and Applications ................................................................................. 188
Mahmoud Eid, University of Ottawa, Canada

Chapter 13
Antinomies of Values under Conditions of Information Age ........................................................................ 198
Liudmila V. Baeva, Astrakhan State University, Russia

Chapter 14
Shaping Digital Democracy in the United States: My.barackobama.com and Participatory Democracy ......................................................................................................................... 213
Rachel Baarda, University of Ottawa, Canada
Rocci Luppicini, University of Ottawa, Canada

Chapter 15
Ethics for eLearning: Two Sides of the Ethical Coin ......................................................................................... 232
Deb Gearhart, Ohio University, USA
Chapter 16
Privacy vs. Security: Smart Dust and Human Extinction

Mark Walker, New Mexico State University, USA

Related References

Compilation of References

About the Contributors

Index