Table of Contents

Foreword .............................................................................................................................................. xix

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xxi

Section 1
Examples of Professional Development School Partnerships

Chapter 1
The Benedum Collaborative: Evaluating a Strategic Plan for Simultaneous Renewal ....................... 1
Sarah Steel, West Virginia University, USA
Neal Shambaugh, West Virginia University, USA
Reagan Curtis, West Virginia University, USA
Lynne Schrum, West Virginia University, USA

Chapter 2
Developing a More Systematic Approach to Professional Development School Partnerships: The Case of PDS Efforts at a Large Urban University ................................................................. 22
Drew Polly, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Melba Spooner, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Marvin Chapman, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Chapter 3
Creating Connections across the PDS Network: A Personal Narrative of One Professor’s Journey .... 30
Suzanne Horn, Queens University of Charlotte, USA

Chapter 4
Commitment to Change and Action: A Holistic and Transformative PDS Partnership ....................... 37
Linda A. Catelli, Dowling College, USA
Valerie Jackson, Belmont Elementary PDS, USA
Judith Marino, North Babylon School District, USA
S. Marshall Perry, Dowling College, USA

Chapter 5
Transformative Partnerships: We Can All Learn .................................................................................. 62
Aimee L. Morewood, West Virginia University, USA
Susan E. Taylor, Mason-Dixon Elementary School, USA
Linda Hennen, Mason-Dixon Elementary School, USA
Chapter 6
Transformative Partnerships ................................................................. 74
Sharon Smaldino, Northern Illinois University, USA
Lara Luetkehans, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, USA

Section 2
Leveraging Professional Development School Partnerships to Meet Needs of Specific Populations

Chapter 7
Designing Authentic Field-Based Experiences with Immigrant Students through One University and Urban School Partnership ................................................................. 84
Lan Quach Kolano, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Cherese Childers-McKee, University of North Carolina – Greensboro, USA

Chapter 8
Hard to Believe It All Started on a Napkin! Anatomy of a Long-Term School-University Partnership to Create and Evaluate Effective Practice ................................................................. 98
Lynn Ahlgrim-Delzell, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Tracie-Lynn Zakas, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools, USA
Diane Browder, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Jane Rhyne, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools, USA

Chapter 9
Collaborating with Urban Professional Development Schools to Effectively Prepare Elementary Urban Teachers: Embedding Pre-Service Teachers in Authentic Urban Settings .................................................. 117
Amy W. Thornburg, Queens University of Charlotte, USA
Jennifer Collins, Queens University of Charlotte, USA

Chapter 10
Sharing PDS Teacher Expertise with Pre-Service Teachers through Videos ............................................. 129
Cathy J. Siebert, Ball State University, USA
Vanessa L. Wyss, Ball State University, USA
Tiffany Jackson, Anderson High School, USA

Chapter 11
Early Childhood Programs as Professional Development Schools ....................................................... 147
Linda K. Taylor, Ball State University, USA
Patricia Clark, Ball State University, USA

Chapter 12
Removing Barriers: Using a PDS Model to Enable Collaborative Community and School Partnerships to Serve At-Risk Students .............................................. 157
S. Michael Putman, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Jerrell C. Cassady, Ball State University, USA
Lawrence L. Smith, Ball State University, USA
Monica L. Heller, Ball State University, USA
Section 3
Designing Professional Development School Partnerships on Specific Pedagogies

Chapter 13
Co-Development of Professional Practice at a Professional Development School through Instructional Rounds and Lesson Study
Jennifer M. Suh, George Mason University, USA
Lesley A. King, George Mason University, USA
Andrea Weiss, George Mason University, USA

Chapter 14
The Professional Development School: Fertile Ground for Service-Learning Initiatives
Tracy Rock, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Tina L. Heafner, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Chapter 15
The University Partnerships for Critical Reflection by Teacher Trainers
Eda Üstünel, Muğla Sıtkı Koçman University, Turkey
Kenan Dikilitaş, Gediz University, Turkey

Chapter 16
Integrated Methods Block: Transforming Elementary Teacher Preparation through the Integration of Content Methods and Early Clinical Experiences
Kate Popejoy, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Amy J. Good, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Tracy Rock, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Jean Payne Vintinner, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Chapter 17
Leveraging a Professional Development School Project to Address Students’ Learning in Elementary School Mathematics
Drew Polly, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Section 4
Focusing Professional Development School Partnerships on Specific Content Areas

Chapter 18
Transformative Professional Development: A Professional Development Team Learns from Students Who Write across the Curriculum
Brian T. Kissel, University of North Carolina – Charlotte, USA
Kateri Thunder, James Madison University, USA
Linde Rickert Tassell, Village School, USA
Jane Hansen, University of Virginia, USA
Chapter 19
The Necessity of Shared Vision to Achieve Coherence: Lessons Learned in the Appalachian Mathematics Partnership ................................................................. 270

  Kathleen Lynch-Davis, Appalachian State University, USA
  Tracie M. Salinas, Appalachian State University, USA
  Deborah Crocker, Appalachian State University, USA
  Katherine J. Mawhinney, Appalachian State University, USA

Chapter 20
Socrates and the Search for Meaning at His Academy .................................................. 281

  Janis Dellinger-Holton, Socrates Academy, USA
  Michael Green, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Chapter 21
Viewing the Implementation of the CCSS through the Lens of One Transformative District-University Partnership .................................................................. 297

  P. Michael Lutz, California State University – Bakersfield, USA

Chapter 22
Nurturing Teacher Development and Promoting Student Academic Achievement through a Reciprocal Learning Experience ............................................. 308

  Tina L. Heafner, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
  Melba Spooner, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

Compilation of References .......................................................................................... 329

About the Contributors ............................................................................................... 352

Index ............................................................................................................................ 362