Deep appreciation and gratitude is due to both National Social Science Fund of China, for the sponsorship of the project, “The Blended Instruction Research of Middle School English Subject Supported by Intelligent Tutoring System CSIEC (Contact No.: 10BYY036),” starting from July 2010 and ending in December 2012, and Ministry of Education China for the sponsorship of the Program for New Century Excellent Talents in University (No.: NCET-10-0179). The two projects’ fruitful achievement serves as the source of this book. The author would like to thank all the principals, teachers, and pupils in the four project schools from Beijing, Guangdong, Henan, and Ningxia in China for their voluntary participation.

I acknowledge all the members of my project team over the past 10 years for their valuable contributions to the development, implementation, and evaluation of the intelligent instruction system CSIEC: Weichao Chen, Fupan Li, Zhaoyin Xu, Yue Jiao, Sibiao Chen, Zhengyuan Hao, Yuhao Chen, Zhuhui Ding, Yin Bai, Baijie Yang, Jingmin Miao, Dong Liang, and so on.

Special thanks also go to the publishing team at IGI Global, whose contributions throughout the whole process from inception of the initial idea to final publication have been invaluable. In particular, to Erin O’Dea and Jan Travers, who assisted in keeping this project on schedule, and to Kayla Wolfe, whose enthusiasm motivated me to initially accept her invitation for taking on this project.

I would like to acknowledge the anonymous reviewers for their detailed, constructive, and critical comments and suggestions, which prevented me from making some embarrassing mistakes and helped me figure out how to improve the submission.

I appreciate Dr. Marcus Childress, professor and director of the Instructional Design and Technology (IDT) doctoral program at Baker University (Kansas), for taking precious time from his busy work schedule to write the inspiring foreword.

Last but not least, I am deeply in debt to my wife, Yanxia, two sons, Yi and Yening, with whom I should have spent time around dinner table, on weekends, on holidays, and on vacations throughout the past year.
