Acknowledgment

The editors would like to acknowledge the help of all the people involved in this project and more specifically to the authors and reviewers that took part in the review process. Without their contributions this book would not have become a reality. Our sincere gratitude goes to the chapter’s authors who contributed their time and expertise to this book. Moreover, we would like to present our greatest thanks to our families for their understanding and support throughout the journey of making this book to exist. Last but not least, special thanks go to Erin O’Dea for her continuous support.
