Table of Contents

Foreword ............................................................................................................................................... xvi

Preface ................................................................................................................................................. xviii

Section 1
Models and Descriptions of Public Private Partnerships in Emergency Management

Chapter 1
Considerations for a Model of Public-Private Sector Collaboration in the Provision of Disaster Relief: Incentives and Limits ............................................................................................................... 1
  Jude Egan, California Polytechnic State University – San Luis Obispo, USA
  Thomas Anderson, Louisiana State University, USA

Chapter 2
Trends in Public Private Partnerships ................................................................................................. 16
  Erin N. Harris, Baltimore City Fire Department, USA

Chapter 3
Mitigating the Impact of Extreme Events: A Private Sector Perspective on the Value of Public Private Partnerships .................................................................................................................. 32
  Doaa Taha, GMI, Ltd., USA

Chapter 4
A Public Sector Practitioner’s Perspective on Public Private Partnerships ...................................... 54
  Erin N. Harris, Baltimore City Fire Department, USA

Chapter 5
Closing the Gaps in Public Private Partnerships in Emergency Management: A Gap Analysis .... 64
  Marvine Hamner, LeaTech, LLC, USA

Section 2
Managing and Sustaining Public Private Partnerships in Emergency Management

Chapter 6
Compassion Organizing for Public-Private Collaboration in Disaster Management ..................... 99
  Taewon Moon, Hongik University, South Korea
  Sunghoon Ko, Hongik University, South Korea
Chapter 7
Use Team Building to Make the Most of Your Public-Private Partnerships .............................................. 121
  Martin Negron, Independent Researcher, USA

Chapter 8
Leadership Challenges in Public Private Partnerships in Emergency Management:
A Real-World Perspective ....................................................................................................................... 136
  John Reginaldi, Baltimore County Police Department, USA

Chapter 9
Communications and Information Sharing in Public-Private Partnerships: Networking for Emergency Management......................................................................................................................... 162
  Beverly Magda, Georgetown University, USA

Chapter 10
Corporate Social Responsibility in Enhancing Disaster Education.......................................................... 183
  Sudha Arlikatti, University of North Texas, USA
  James Kendra, University of Delaware, USA
  Eliot Jennings, Colorado Mesa University, USA

Chapter 11
Using Systems Analysis and Dynamics to Evaluate Public Private Partnerships with Data and Best Practices from SAFER Santa Rosa ................................................................................................ 195
  Daniel Hahn, Santa Rosa County Florida Division of Emergency Management, USA

Section 3
Utilizing Public Private Partnerships in Emergency Management

Chapter 12
Aligning Community Hospitals with Local Public Health Departments: Collaborative
Emergency Management......................................................................................................................... 218
  Anne M. Hewitt, Seton Hall University, USA
  Stephen L. Wagner, Seton Hall University, USA
  Riad Twal, Seton Hall University, USA
  David Gourley, Atlantic Health System, USA

Chapter 13
Coalitions: The Future of Healthcare in Public Private Partnerships ...................................................... 240
  Erinn N. Harris, Baltimore City Fire Department, USA

Chapter 14
Public-Private Partnerships in Support of Critical Infrastructure and Key Resources ....................... 256
  Martin A. Negron, GMI, Ltd., USA
  Doaa Taha, GMI, Ltd., USA
Chapter 15
Maximize Existing Resources with Your Public-Private Partnerships

Julie Kachgal, Warner Bros. Studios, USA

Related References

Compilation of References

About the Contributors

Index