Expresses her eternal gratitude to her husband, Malcolm B. Dick, for his unfailing love, support, and encouragement. Without his faith in her, this project would not have been accomplished.

Honors her brother, Christopher Muehlke, whose life with Down syndrome taught her that personhood persists despite disease and disability. If only he could know that his life continues to make a difference through hers.

Recognizes Dr. Debra Cherry, who inspired and encouraged her to include a chapter written by an individual with mild cognitive impairment (MCI) or early Alzheimer’s disease in this book. Special thanks go to Steve and Gincy Heins for co-authoring the chapter, “Steve’s Story: Living with Mild Cognitive Impairment.”

Deeply appreciates Dr. Helena Chui for writing the foreword to this book and her longstanding support.

Acknowledges her co-editors, Roubing Li and Myron Orleans, for their commitment to this project and is particularly grateful to Dr. Orleans for his guidance and counsel.

Acknowledges Myron Orleans for initiating this project and Cordula Dick-Muehlke for its realization.

Acknowledges our lead editor, Cordula Dick-Muehlke, who made this book happen.
