Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xv

Acknowledgment .................................................................................................................................. xxii

Section 1
Designing Successful Gamification

Chapter 1
Ambiguous Play: Towards a Broader Concept of Gamification .......................................................... 1
   Nathan Hulsey, North Carolina State University, USA

Chapter 2
“A Spoonful of Game Design Makes the Work-Out More Fun”: Essential Game Design Elements for Use in Gamified Applications ........................................................................................................ 27
   William R. Upchurch, University of Pittsburgh, USA
   Susan M. Wildermuth, University ofWisconsin Whitewater, USA

Chapter 3
Gaining Reward vs. Avoiding Loss: When Does Gamification Stop Being Fun? ................................. 48
   Selcen Ozturkcan, Istanbul Bilgi University, Turkey
   Sercan Šengün, Istanbul Bilgi University, Turkey

Chapter 4
Development of the “Hybrid Interactive Rhetorical Engagement” (H.I.R.E.) Scale: Implications for Digital Gamification Research ........................................................................................................ 72
   Yowei Kang, Kainan University, Taiwan

Section 2
Gamification and Business

Chapter 5
Gamification in Market Research: Promises, Results, and Limitations ................................................. 94
   Kartik Pashupati, Research Now, USA
   Pushkala Raman, Texas Woman’s University, USA
Chapter 6
Gamification of Human Resource Processes ................................................................. 108
  Jared Z. Ferrell, SHAKER, USA
  Jacqueline E. Carpenter, SHAKER, USA
  E. Daly Vaughn, SHAKER, USA
  Nikki M. Dudley, SHAKER, USA
  Scott A. Goodman, SHAKER, USA

Chapter 7
Gamifying Recruitment, Selection, Training, and Performance Management: Game-Thinking in Human Resource Management ......................................................................................................................... 140
  Michael B. Armstrong, Old Dominion University, USA
  Richard N. Landers, Old Dominion University, USA
  Andrew B. Collmus, Old Dominion University, USA

Section 3
Gamification of Education

Chapter 8
Three Perspectives on Video Game Learning: Behaviorism, Cognitivism, and Constructivism .... 167
  Zeynep Tanes, Duquesne University

Chapter 9
Leveling up the Classroom: A Theoretical Approach to Education Gamification .................. 196
  Michael D. Hanus, The Ohio State University, United States
  Carlos Cruz, The Ohio State University, United States

Chapter 10
Gamification of the Classroom: Potential, Pitfalls, and Practices........................................... 224
  Darcy Osheim, Maine Maritime Academy, USA

Section 4
Social Change and Health through Gamification

Chapter 11
A Framework for Collaboration among Game Designers and Social Change Makers: Multiplayer Missions That Matter ........................................................................................................ 250
  Marty Kearns, Netcentric Campaigns, USA
  Meredith Wise, Netcentric Campaigns, USA

Chapter 12
Digital Development and International Aid: Are Games Changing the World? .................. 276
  Jolene Fisher, University of Oregon, USA
Chapter 13
Gamified Self: Factors Influencing Self-Tracking Technology Acceptance ........................................... 304
Rachelle DiGregorio, Big Spaceship, USA
Harsha Gangadharbatla, University of Colorado, USA

Section 5
Gamification and Journalism

Chapter 14
Games and Quizzes in Online Journalism: Reaching Users via Interactivity and Customization ..... 329
Bartosz W. Wojdynski, University of Georgia, USA

Chapter 15
The Gamification of Journalism .............................................................................................................. 356
Raul Ferrer Conill, Karlstad University, Sweden
Michael Karlsson, Karlstad University, Sweden

Compilation of References .................................................................................................................. 384

About the Contributors .................................................................................................................... 446

Index ................................................................................................................................................... 451