Table of Contents

Foreword ........................................................................................................................................... xiv

Preface ................................................................................................................................................ xvii

Acknowledgment .............................................................................................................................. xxiv

Chapter 1
Conceptualising Recognition of Prior Learning Processes in the Age of Open Learning ............... 1
  Elizabeth Ruinard, Queensland University of Technology, Australia
  Judith McNamara, Queensland University of Technology, Australia

Chapter 2
  Tim Pitman, Curtin University, Australia
  Lesley Vidovich, University of Western Australia, Australia

Chapter 3
Rediscovering the North American Legacy of Self-Initiated Learning in Prior Learning Assessments ........................................................................................................................................ 34
  Xenia Coulter, SUNY Empire State College, USA
  Alan Mandell, SUNY Empire State College, USA

Chapter 4
Innovating Processes to Determine Quality alongside Increased Inclusivity in Higher Education...... 59
  Nick Kelly, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
  Rory Sie, Utrecht University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands
  Robert Schuwer, Fontys University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands

Chapter 5
Enabling Meaningful Certificates from Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs): A Data-Driven Curriculum E-Map Design Model ........................................................................................................................................ 79
  Yianna Vovides, Georgetown University, USA
  Sarah Inman, Stevens Institute of Technology, USA
Chapter 6
Smaller by Design: How Good Practice Features from MOOCs can be Adapted to Enhance Core Curricula Delivery ................................................................................................................. 98
  David Lyon, Bay of Plenty Polytechnic, New Zealand
  Lynette Steele, Bay of Plenty Polytechnic, New Zealand
  Cath Fraser, Bay of Plenty Polytechnic, New Zealand

Chapter 7
Re-Purposing MOOCs and OER for Academic Credit in the UK Using a Flexible Work Based Learning Program at an English University .................................................. 121
  Jon Talbot, University of Chester, UK

Chapter 8
Developing a Transdisciplinary Work-Based Learning Curriculum: A Model for Recognising Learning from Work ............................................................................................................. 144
  Darryll Bravenboer, Middlesex University, UK
  Barbara Workman, Middlesex University, UK

Chapter 9
eRPL and ePR in Higher Education Contexts .................................................................................. 168
  Roslyn Cameron, Curtin University, Australia
  Linda Pfeiffer, Central Queensland University, Australia

Chapter 10
Considerations of Self in Recognising Prior Learning and Credentialing ........................................ 187
  Lloyd Hawkeye Robertson, Athabasca University, Canada
  Dianne Conrad, Athabasca University, Canada

Chapter 11
Toward an Open Empowered Learning Model of Pedagogy in Higher Education ...................... 205
  Robyn Smyth, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
  Carina Bossu, University of Tasmania, Australia
  Adrian Stagg, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Chapter 12
Open-Sourced Personal, Networked Learning and Higher Education Credentials .......................... 223
  Merilyn Childs, Macquarie University, Australia
  Regine Wagner, Artist, Australia

Chapter 13
Quality Assessment and Certification in Open Scholarly Publishing and Inspiration for MOOC Credentialing .................................................................................................................... 245
  Xiang Ren, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Chapter 14
Equity and Access as Keys for Opening Open Learning: The Case for Virtually Facilitated Work-Based Learning .......................................................... 263

Luke Van Der Laan, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Liz Neary, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Compilation of References .................................................................................. 291

About the Contributors ......................................................................................... 335

Index ....................................................................................................................... 341