Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xx

Volume I

Section 1
Fundamental Concepts and Theories

This section serves as a foundation for this exhaustive reference tool by addressing underlying principles essential to the understanding of Politics and Social Activism. Chapters found within these pages provide an excellent framework in which to position Politics and Social Activism within the field of information science and technology. Insight regarding the critical incorporation of global measures into Politics and Social Activism is addressed, while crucial stumbling blocks of this field are explored. With 16 chapters comprising this foundational section, the reader can learn and chose from a compendium of expert research on the elemental theories underscoring the Politics and Social Activism discipline.

Chapter 1
The Internet, National Citizenship, and the “Sovereignty Paradox”: Asylum-Seeking Migrants’ Political Agency and “Technologized” Citizenship ........................................................................................................ 1
   Amadu Wurie Khan, University of Edinburgh, UK

Chapter 2
Achieving Useful Government Accountability and Transparency Websites ............................................ 26
   Deborah S. Carstens, Florida Institute of Technology, USA
   Stephen Kies, Florida Institute of Technology, USA
   Randy Stockman, Florida Institute of Technology, USA

Chapter 3
The Gamut of E-Government Research, Design, and Implementation: Key Issues ............................... 49
   Kelvin Joseph Bwalya, University of Botswana, Botswana
   Stephen Mutula, University of KwaZulu Natal, South Africa

Chapter 4
Democratising E-Democracy: A Roadmap for Impact ............................................................................. 69
   Francesco Molinari, University of Siena, Italy
   Maggie McPherson, University of Leeds, UK
   Gurmit Singh, University of Leeds, UK
Chapter 13
Designing E-Government Platforms using Systems Thinking Perspectives and Performance Measurement Frameworks.................................................................................................................. 268
Samuel C. Avemaria Utulu, University of Cape Town, South Africa & Redeemer’s University, Nigeria
Kosheek Sewchurran, University of Cape Town, South Africa

Chapter 14
Ontology Development and the Role of Knowledge in E-Government Project Management: A Lesson for Developing Countries........................................................................................................ 289
Bongani Ngwenya, Solusi University, Zimbabwe

Chapter 15
Jean Vincent Fonou-Dombeu, Vaal University of Technology, South Africa
Magda Huisman, North-West University, South Africa

Chapter 16
The Strategic Planning Process of Social Media Advertising in the Context of Integrated Marketing Communication .................................................................................................................. 328
Füsun Topsümer, Ege University, Turkey
Dincer Yarkin, Gediz University, Turkey

Section 2
Tools and Technologies
This section presents an extensive coverage of various tools and technologies available in the field of Politics and Social Activism that practitioners and academicians alike can utilize to develop different techniques. These chapters enlighten readers about fundamental research on the many tools facilitating the burgeoning field of Politics and Social Activism. It is through these rigorously researched chapters that the reader is provided with countless examples of the up-and-coming tools and technologies emerging from the field of Politics and Social Activism. With 16 chapters, this section offers a broad treatment of some of the many tools and technologies within the Politics and Social Activism field.

Chapter 17
Towards a Successful E-Government Implementation.................................................................................. 341
Mehdi Sagheb-Tehrani, Columbus State University, USA

Chapter 18
An Overview of E-Government Technological Divide in Developing Countries ..................... 365
Rafiat A. Oyekunle, University of Ilorin, Nigeria
H. B. Akanbi-Ademolake, University of Ilorin, Nigeria

Chapter 19
Citizen Education and Technology ........................................................................................................ 380
Lesley Farmer, California State University – Long Beach, USA
Chapter 20
The Promise of Open Source Systems/Software in Developing Requisite E-Government Solutions for the Developing Countries: A Review of Literature

Adeyinka Tella, University of Ilorin, Nigeria
Adetayo O. Tella, University of Ibadan, Nigeria

Chapter 21
E-Procurement System as an E-Government Platform: Case of South Korea

Young Jin Shin, PaiChai University, South Korea

Chapter 22
Social Media and Free Knowledge: Case Study – Public Opinion Formation

Jose Aguilar, Universidad de Los Andes, Venezuela
Oswaldo Terán, Universidad de Los Andes, Venezuela

Chapter 23
Towards E-Government Information Platforms for Enterprise 2.0

Mário Rodrigues, University of Aveiro, Portugal
Gonçalo Paiva Dias, University of Aveiro, Portugal
António Teixeira, University of Aveiro, Portugal

Chapter 24
IT and Collaborative Community Services: The Roles of the Public Library, Local Government, and Nonprofit Entity Partnerships

Natalie Greene Taylor, University of Maryland College Park, USA
Ursula Gorham, University of Maryland College Park, USA
Paul T. Jaeger, University of Maryland College Park, USA
John Carlo Bertot, University of Maryland College Park, USA

Chapter 25
Cloud Computing and Gov 2.0: Traditionalism or Transformation across the Canadian Public Sector?

Jeffrey Roy, Dalhousie University, Canada

Chapter 26
ICTs: Convenient, Yet Subsidiary Tools in Changing Democracy

Kerill Dunne, Independent Researcher, Ireland

Chapter 27
DICTION as a Tool for Studying the Mass Media

R. Lance Holbert, The Ohio State University, USA
Chapter 28
Bridging Women Rights Networks: Analyzing Interconnected Online Collective Actions ............ 551
  Serpil T. Yuce, University of Arkansas, USA
  Nitin Agarwal, University of Arkansas, USA
  Rolf T. Wigand, University of Arkansas, USA
  Merlyna Lim, Carleton University, Canada
  Rebecca S. Robinson, Arizona State University, USA

Chapter 29
Human Enhancement Technologies and Democratic Citizenship .............................................. 572
  Jean-Paul Gagnon, Australian Catholic University, Australia

Chapter 30
Technology-Enhanced Pedagogical Models to Learn Critical Citizenship at a South African University .................................................................................................................. 587
  Patient Rambe, Central University of Technology, South Africa
  Edem Agbobli, Central University of Technology, South Africa

Volume II

Chapter 31
Internet Use and Destination Preferences: Evidence from Crete and Cyprus ....................... 613
  Nikolaos Pappas, Leeds Metropolitan University, UK

Chapter 32
Smartphone-Based Digital Government Model: The Case of the Beyaz Masa (White Table) App in Turkey .................................................................................................................. 632
  Ronan de Kervenoael, Sabanci University, Turkey & Aston Business School, UK
  Egemen Sekeralp, Pordiva Bilisim Teknolojileri A.S., Turkey

Section 3
Utilization and Application

This section discusses a variety of applications and opportunities available that can be considered by practitioners in developing viable and effective Politics and Social Activism programs and processes. This section includes 13 chapters that review topics from case studies to best practices and ongoing research. Further chapters discuss Politics and Social Activism in a variety of settings. Contributions included in this section provide excellent coverage of today’s IT community and how research into Politics and Social Activism is impacting the social fabric of our present-day global village.

Chapter 33
Evaluating E-Government .......................................................................................................... 658
  Fotini Patsioura, University of Macedonia, Greece

Chapter 34
Googling Democracy: A Comparison of Democracy Promoters on the Internet ................... 677
  Nelli Babayan, Freie Universität Berlin, Germany
  Stefano Braghiroli, University of Tartu, Estonia
Chapter 35
Exploring Humanitarian Law: Tools and Methods for Fostering Global Citizenship
Mary Jane Harkins, Mount Saint Vincent University, Canada
Catherine Baillie Abidi, Saint Francis Xavier University, Canada
Taunya Pynn Crowe, Cobequid Educational Centre, Canada
Renata Verri, Horton High School, Canada

Chapter 36
Exploring the Development of M-Government: Case Studies of Korea and Kenya’s Mobile Banking Sector
Yejoo Kim, Stellenbosch University, South Africa

Chapter 37
Value Assessment in E-Government and M-Government
Shu Wen Lee, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
Pek Hia Lai, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Chapter 38
The Adoption of Web 2.0 by the State Government: The Role of Political Environment and Governors
Michael J. Ahn, University of Massachusetts, USA
Michael Berardino, University of Massachusetts, USA

Chapter 39
Adoption of Social Media Services: The Case of Local Government Organizations in Australia
Mohd Hisham Mohd Sharif, University of Adelaide, Australia
Indrit Troshani, University of Adelaide, Australia
Robyn Davidson, University of Adelaide, Australia

Chapter 40
Transformation in Daytime Television Programs in Turkey since 2000
Ece Karadogan Doruk, Istanbul University, Turkey

Chapter 41
Construction and Initial Validation of a Dictionary for Global Citizen Linguistic Markers
Stephen Reysen, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Lindsey Pierce, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Gideon Mazambani, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Ida Mohebpour, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Curtis Puryear, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Jamie S. Snider, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA
Shonda Gibson, Texas A&M University Kingsville, USA
Marion E. Blake, Texas A&M University Kingsville, USA

Chapter 42
An Assessment of E-Government in a West African Country: The Case of Nigeria
Francis Amagoh, KIMEP University, Kazakhstan
Chapter 43
Is Political Participation Online Effective? A Case Study of the E-Democracy Initiative
Conducted by the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies ................................................................. 844
   Patrícia G. C. Rossini, Federal University of Minas Gerais, Brazil
   Rousiley C. M. Maia, Federal University of Minas Gerais, Brazil

Chapter 44
Government Spending Transparency on the Internet: An Assessment of Greek Bottom-Up
Initiatives over the Diavgeia Project .......................................................................................... 866
   Evika Karamagioli, University of Athens, Greece
   Eleni-Revekka Staïou, University of Athens, Greece
   Dimitris Gouscos, University of Athens, Greece

Chapter 45
Exploring Consumer Empowerment in Consumption Communities Based in Social Media .......... 884
   Imene Ben Yahia, Institut Supérieur de Finance et de Fiscalité de Sousse (ISFFS), Tunisia
   Lilia El Ferci, ARBRE, High Institute of Management Tunis, Tunisia

Section 4
Organizational and Social Implications
This section includes a wide range of research pertaining to the social and behavioral impact of Politics and Social Activism around the world. Chapters introducing this section critically analyze and discuss trends in Politics and Social Activism. Also investigating a concern within the field of Politics and Social Activism is research which discusses the effect of user behavior on Politics and Social Activism. With 18 chapters, the discussions presented in this section offer research into the integration of global Politics and Social Activism as well as implementation of ethical and workflow considerations for all organizations.

Chapter 46
E-Government Transparency and Citizen Engagement Increasing Accountability...................... 902
   Deborah S. Carstens, Florida Institute of Technology, USA
   Stephen Kies, Florida Institute of Technology, USA
   Randy Stockman, Florida Institute of Technology, USA

Chapter 47
Towards a Citizen-Centric E-Government Service Index Model: Developments and Impediments within the Egyptian Context ..................................................................................................... 928
   Mohamed R. Zakaria, Al Ghurair University, UAE
   Tarek R. Gebba, Al Ghurair University, UAE
   Mohamed Gamal Aboelmaged, Ain Shams University, Egypt

Chapter 48
Religious Social Movements and Economic Welfare in Modern Turkey .................................. 948
   Cemile Zehra Köroğlu, Gümüşhane University, Turkey
   Muhammet Ali Köroğlu, Gümüşhane University, Turkey
Chapter 49

Akemi Takeoka Chatfield, University of Wollongong, Australia
Jazem AlAnazi, King Saud University, Saudi Arabia

Chapter 50
Legal Empowerment as Social Entrepreneurship: The KwaZulu-Natal Cases of Bulwer and New Hanover

Fayth Ruffin, University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa
Winnie Kubayi Martins, Centre for Community Justice and Development, South Africa

Chapter 51
The Relationship between Trust and Citizens’ Adoption of E-Government

Ameen Alazzam, Yarmouk University, Jordan

Chapter 52
Citizenship @ the Edge of Two Worlds: The Connection between Theories of Citizenship Education and the Study of Niche Online Communities

Robert McGray, Concordia University, Canada
Tieja Thomas, Concordia University, Canada

Chapter 53
Identity, Citizenship, and Moral Constructs from the Virtual Self

Stewart Martin, University of Hull, UK

Chapter 54
Citizen In/Action: Analyzing Online Forums for Pedagogical Insight

Tieja Thomas, Concordia University, Canada
Nicole Fournier-Sylvester, Concordia University, Canada
Vivek Venkatesh, Concordia University, Canada

Chapter 55
Interactions between the Governed and Their Governments: The Democratic Paradigm

Diogo Santos, Federal University of Maranhao, Brazil & Dom Bosco University, Brazil

Chapter 56

Leigh R. Anderson, The Ohio State University, USA

Chapter 57
Engaging Social Movements in Developing Innovative Retail Business Models

Roberta Sebastiani, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Italy
Francesca Montagnini, University of Milan-Bicocca, Italy
Chapter 58
Citizens and E-Government: Perceptions in Nigeria ................................................................. 1131
   Gbolahan Olasina, University of South Africa (UNISA), South Africa

Chapter 59
Niche and Community Online: Artists’ Tactical Media Activities as Pedagogy...................... 1142
   Patti Pente, University of Alberta, Canada

Chapter 60
Citizens’ Voice and Adoption of Pakistani E-Government Services........................................ 1155
   Muhammad Ovais Ahmad, University of Oulu, Finland
   Jouni Markkula, University of Oulu, Finland
   Markku Oivo, University of Oulu, Finland

Chapter 61
Trolls Just Want To Have Fun: Electronic Aggression within the Context of e-Participation and
Other Online Political Behaviour in the United Kingdom.......................................................... 1172
   Shefali Virkar, University of Oxford, UK

Volume III

Chapter 62
Organizational Citizenship Behavior: A Field Study in the Italian Hospitality Industry ............ 1207
   Francesca Di Virgilio, University of Molise, Italy
   Angelo Presenza, University G. D'Annunzio of Chieti-Pescara, Italy
   Lorn Sheehan, Dalhousie University, Canada

Chapter 63
The Impact of Perceived Organizational Politics on Work Attitudes: The Moderating Role of Leader-Member-Exchange Quality ............................................................................................. 1229
   Prerna Chhetri, ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education, India
   Nikhat Afshan, ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education, India
   Srabasti Chatterjee, ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education, India

Section 5
Critical Issues

This section contains 14 chapters, giving a wide variety of perspectives on Politics and Social Activism and its implications. Within the chapters, the reader is presented with an in-depth analysis of the most current and relevant issues within this growing field of study. Crucial questions are addressed and alternatives offered along with theoretical approaches discussed.

Chapter 64
Shaping Digital Democracy in the United States: My.barackobama.com and Participatory Democracy .................................................................................................................................... 1244
   Rachel Baarda, University of Ottawa, Canada
   Rocci Luppicini, University of Ottawa, Canada
Chapter 65
Trends in e-Strategic Management: How do Governments Transform their Policies?....................... 1263
   Leonidas Anthopoulos, Technological Educational Institute (TEI) of Larissa, Greece
   Panos Fitsilis, Technological Educational Institute (TEI) of Larissa, Greece

Chapter 66
Communicative Planning Theory Following Deliberative Democracy Theory: Critical Pragmatism and the Trading Zone Concept................................................................. 1288
   Raine Mäntysalo, Aalto University School of Engineering, Finland
   Karoliina Jarenko, Aalto University School of Engineering, Finland

Chapter 67
What is Needed to Advance Transformational E-Government and Why: A Different Approach to Project Management ........................................................................................................... 1302
   Shauneen Furlong, University of Liverpool, UK

Chapter 68
Towards an Interactive E-Government System in Sub-Saharan Africa: Prospects and Challenges................................................................................................................................. 1323
   Charles Conteh, Brock University, Canada
   Greg Smith, Nimbus Information Management Solutions, Canada

Chapter 69
Professional Development Needs and Resources for Government Document Librarians.............. 1339
   Susanne Caro, University of Montana, USA

Chapter 70
Quality Approaches for Performance Measurement in Jordanian E-Government Services........ 1356
   Sitalakshmi Venkatraman, Northern Melbourne Institute of TAFE, Australia
   Mamoun Alazab, Australian National University, Australia

Chapter 71
Feral Government? The Limitations of Critical Success Factors in the Context of Major Government IT Projects................................................................. 1375
   Annie Maddison, Cranfield University, UK

Chapter 72
Big Data for Digital Government: Opportunities, Challenges, and Strategies ......................... 1394
   Yu-Che Chen, University of Nebraska at Omaha, USA
   Tsui-Chuan Hsieh, National Development Council, Taiwan

Chapter 73
What Does E-add to Democracy? Designing an Agenda for Democracy Theory in the Information Age...................................................................................................................... 1408
   Patricia Mindus, Uppsala University, Sweden
Chapter 74
Are Greek High School Students Environmental Citizens? A Cluster Analysis Approach ............ 1430
Despina Sdrali, Harokopio University, Greece
Nikolaos Galanis, Harokopio University, Greece
Maria Goussia-Rizou, Harokopio University, Greece
Konstadinos Abeliotis, Harokopio University, Greece

Chapter 75
E-Governance in Africa and the Challenges Confronting Urban E-Planning: Lusophone African Countries........................................................................................................................................... 1443
Carlos Nunes Silva, University of Lisbon, Portugal

Chapter 76
A Democratic Approach to Strategic Management in Sport Organizations ......................... 1466
Robert C. Schneider, The College at Brockport, SUNY, USA

Chapter 77
The Opportunities and Challenges of using Email for Political Communication in Authoritarian States: A Case of Zimbabwe’s Media Monitoring Project .................................................. 1488
Sam Takavarasha, Jr., University of Zimbabwe, Zimbabwe
Eldred Masunungure, University of Zimbabwe, Zimbabwe

Section 6
Emerging Trends
This section highlights research potential within the field of Politics and Social Activism while exploring uncharted areas of study for the advancement of the discipline. Introducing this section are chapters that set the stage for future research directions and topical suggestions for continued debate, centering on the new venues and forums for discussion. A pair of chapters on space-time makes up the middle of the section of the final 11 chapters, and the book concludes with a look ahead into the future of the Politics and Social Activism field. In all, this text will serve as a vital resource to practitioners and academics interested in the best practices and applications of the burgeoning field of Politics and Social Activism.

Chapter 78
Government 2.0: Innovation for E-Democracy................................................................. 1509
Malgorzata Pankowska, University of Economics in Katowice, Poland

Chapter 79
Politicking the Information Technology Strategy in Organisations..................................... 1528
Tiko Iyamu, Cape Peninsula University of Technology, South Africa

Chapter 80
Realigning Governance: From E-Government to E-Democracy for Social and Economic Development .................................................................................................................. 1555
Bongani Ngwenya, Solusi University, Bulawayo
Chapter 81
Systemic Enterprise Architecture as Future: Tackling Complexity in Governments in the Cusp of Change .............................................................................................................................................. 1582
Pallab Saha, National University of Singapore, Singapore

Chapter 82
Foresights and Practice in Technology Development for E-Government Applications: A Global Compendium of Approaches .............................................................................................................................................. 1649
Kelvin Joseph Bwalya, University of Botswana, Botswana & University of Johannesburg, South Africa

Chapter 83
To Participation and Beyond? Developing E-Democracy in Bristol, UK .............................................................................................................................................. 1662
Paul Burton, Griffith University, Australia
Stephen Hilton, Bristol City Council, UK

Chapter 84
Critical Perspectives of E-Government in Developing World: Insights from Emerging Issues and Barriers .............................................................................................................................................. 1676
Gbenga Emmanuel Afolayan, University of York, UK

Chapter 85
Wired for Change? Information and Communication Technologies Shaping Public Administrative Reform for Development in Karnataka, India.............................................................................................................................................. 1696
Shefali Virkar, University of Oxford, UK

Chapter 86
Impact and Potential of Emerging Technologies for Fostering Democracy .............................................................................................................................................. 1721
Amir Manzoor, Bahria University, Pakistan

Chapter 87
Constructing Multicultural Society on Web: Minorities on Information Society .............................................................................................................................................. 1749
Vildan Mahmutoğlu, Galatasaray University, Turkey

Chapter 88
Consulting the British Public in the Digital Age: Technological Innovation and Internet Addiction in the Web 2.0 Era.............................................................................................................................................. 1763
Shefali Virkar, University of Oxford, UK

Index ................................................................................................................................................................................................................. xxiii