Acknowledgment

First and foremost, Krishna Bista would like thank to his mentors Drs. Andrew Creamer, Barry S. Davidson at Troy University College of Education for their initial direction in constructing research on international student studies. This book is a product of deep-rooted inspiration in the field as the result of their mentorship in international scholarship.

Second, we offer our sincere and special thanks to Drs. George Foldesy and David W. Cox at the Arkansas State University Center for Excellence in Education where we completed numerous collaborative research projects including the establishment of the Journal of International Students, a quarterly publication on international higher education. The Center was our home for joint-research and we would like to acknowledge our gurus at the Center including Drs. David Holman, John A. Beineke, and Amany Saleh for their mentorships.

We would like to also acknowledge the help of all the scholars who were involved in this project and, more specifically, to the authors and reviewers that took part in the review process. Without their support, this book would not have become a reality. We would like to offer our gratitude and thanks to the editorial review members of the Journal of International Students for their voluntary contribution in reviewing the 185 manuscripts that we received for this book project.

Most importantly, we would like to thank each one of the authors for their contribution. Our sincere gratitude goes to the chapter’s authors who provided their heartfelt time and expertise to this book. We also wish to acknowledge the valuable contributions of the reviewers regarding the improvement of quality, coherence, and content presentation of chapters. Most of the authors also served as referees; we highly appreciate their double tasking. We offer our sincere appreciation for our editorial advisory board. Special thanks are extended to the members of the editorial advisory board. A profound thank-you goes to Drs. Hans de Wit and Rosalind L. Raby, the “giants” in the field for their scholarly suggestions during the editing and preparation of this book.

At the University of Louisiana at Monroe School of Education, Krishna Bista would like to thank his School of Education colleagues for their encouragement and support including Dr. Dorothy Schween (Director) and Dr. Sandra Lemoine (Dean). For this project, he also appreciates the Chase Endowed Professorship received from ULM. Charlotte Foster at Missouri Western State University wants to thank to the Teacher Education department for their support and encouragement.
Finally, we like to thank our family members for their support. Krishna Bista wants to thank his wife, Amrita Bhandari for her support and love, and nine-month Amos Bista for always smiling at working dad on his computer for several months during this book project. Charlotte would like to offer a prayer of thanks to her late husband, Brian, who always encouraged her to succeed, as well as Steven, Shane, and the rest of her family and friends that supported her through this project.

Krishna Bista
University of Louisiana at Monroe, USA

Charlotte Foster
Missouri Western State University, USA