Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xiii

Section 1
Complex (Re)Articulations of Political Life

Chapter 1
Social Media, Participation, and Attitudes: Does Social Media Drive Polarization? ......................... 1
Justin W. Holmes, University of Northern Iowa, USA
Ramona Sue McNeal, University of Northern Iowa, USA

Chapter 2
“Microblog, A Public Sphere?”: An Examination of Opinion Expression about “Snowden Affair”
on Twitter and Sina Weibo .................................................................................................................... 22
Shaohai Jiang, Texas A&M University, USA

Chapter 3
Social Media Activism: A Contested Field .............................................................................................. 40
Pantelis Vatikiotis, Izmir University of Economics, Turkey

Section 2
Grassroots Social Movements, Institutionalized Politics, and Mediatized Political Communication

Chapter 4
Radical Political Communication and Social Media: The Case of the Mexican #YoSoy132 ............. 56
Lázaro M. Bacallao-Pino, National Autonomous University of Mexico, Mexico

Chapter 5
Reformulating Government-Citizen Relations in a Digitally Connected World: The Twitter Ban
Phenomenon in Turkey ........................................................................................................................... 75
Helin Alagöz Gessler, The Business and Information Technology School Berlin, Germany

Chapter 6
Imperfect Bipartisanship and Spanish Pluralism: The Keys to Success of Podemos on Twitter ........ 94
Marta Pérez Escolar, Catholic University of Murcia, Spain
Section 3
Strategic Communication of Political Actors on Micro-Blogging Outlets and its Ability to Empower Democracy

Chapter 7
Political Communication and Twitter in Greece: Jumps on the Bandwagon or an Enhancement of the Political Dialogue? .......................................................... 119

Stamatis Poulakidakos, University of Athens, Greece
Anastasia Veneti, Bournemouth University, UK

Chapter 8
The Performative Role of Hashtags in the Politicization of Europe: Twitter and European Elections in 2014 ................................................................. 147

Maria Francesca Murru, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore di Milano, Italy

Chapter 9
Post as Much and as Diversely as Possible: Intensity and Innovation in the Application of Twitter by Political Parties during the 2014 Slovenian National Election Campaign ........................................ 168

Alem Maksuti, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia
Tomaž Deželan, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia

Section 4
Utilization of Facebook as a Strategic Election Campaign Tool

Chapter 10
European Elections and Facebook: Political Advertising and Deliberation? ................................................. 191

Lucia Vesnic-Alujevic, Independent Researcher, Italy

Chapter 11
One of Many Tools to Win the Election: A Study of Facebook Posts by Presidential Candidates in the 2012 Election .......................................................... 210

Ashik Shafi, Wayne State University, USA
Fred Vultee, Wayne State University, USA

Chapter 12
Facebook Photographic Images: Political Tools of Self-Presentation during the 2014 European Parliament Elections in Romania ......................................................... 229

Camelia Cmeciu, University of Bucharest, Romania

Related References .......................................................................................................................... 253

Compilation of References ............................................................................................................... 289

About the Contributors .................................................................................................................. 328

Index ........................................................................................................................................ 331