Table of Contents

Foreword ................................................................................................................................................. xxv
Preface ..................................................................................................................................................... xxvii
Acknowledgment ...................................................................................................................................... xxxix

Section 1
Short-Term Study Abroad Trends and Demographics

Chapter 1
Research on US Education Abroad: A Concise Overview ................................................................. 1
Anthony C. Ogden, Michigan State University, USA
Bernhard Streitwieser, The George Washington University, USA

Chapter 2
Counting Outward Mobility: The Data Sources and their Constraints ........................................ 40
Steve Nerlich, Australian National University, Australia

Chapter 3
Higher Education Abroad: Trends among the Indigenous Palestinian Arab Minority in Israel .......... 66
Khalid Arae, Sakhnin College for Teacher Ed, Israel
Kussai Haj-Yehia, Beit-Berl Academic College, Israel

Section 2
Pre-Departure Considerations for Outbound Mobility

Chapter 4
Repositioning Study Abroad as a Rite of Passage: Impact, Implications, and Implementation .......... 89
David Starr-Glass, University of New York in Prague, Czech Republic

Chapter 5
Providing Study Abroad Opportunities for Underrepresented Populations: Lessons from the University of California, Riverside ........................................................................................................... 115
Elizabeth Claassen Thrush, University of California – Riverside, USA
Christine Victorino, University of California – Riverside, USA
Chapter 6
Encountering Unfamiliar Educational Practices Abroad: Opportunities or Obstacles? .......... 137
Jane Jackson, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Chapter 7
Students’ Perceived Benefits of Short-Term Study Abroad Programs: A Case Study of Hong Kong Higher Education ................................................................. 163
Annie Yan-Ni Cheng, The Hong Kong Institute of Education, Hong Kong

Chapter 8
Critical Components in Preparing Students for Short-Term Study Tours to Asia .................. 188
Tracey Bretag, University of South Australia, Australia
Robert van der Veen, Oxford Brookes University, UK
Sonia Saddiqui, University of South Australia, Australia
Ying Zhu, University of South Australia, Australia

Chapter 9
A New Border Pedagogy: Rethinking Outbound Mobility Programs in the Asian Century .......... 215
Louise Townsin, Torrens University Australia, Australia
Chris Walsh, James Cook University, Australia

Chapter 10
Rationale and Risk Considerations: Establishing Transnational Higher Education Provisions or International Branch Campuses Abroad ................................................................. 248
Eng Kee Sia, Management Development Institute of Singapore, Singapore

Section 3
Faculty-Led International Exchange and Service-Learning Experiences

Chapter 11
Service-Learning Abroad: Undergraduates’ Development of Pluralistic Outcomes .................. 278
Krista M. Soria, University of Minnesota, USA
Shane M. Lueck, University of Minnesota, USA
Rebecca E. Hanson, University of Minnesota, USA
Dale J. Morrow, University of Minnesota, USA

Chapter 12
Engineering and Information Technology: Challenges and Opportunities for Exchange Studies .................................................................................................................. 300
Shanton Chang, The University of Melbourne, Australia
Martina von Imhoff, Technische Universität München, Germany
Rikke Ilona Ustrup, IT University of Copenhagen, Denmark

Chapter 13
Value Co-Creation in Faculty-Led Study Abroad Programs: A Service-Dominant Logic Approach ........................................................................................................... 325
Sven Tuzovic, Queensland University of Technology, Australia
Chapter 14
Exploring Intercultural Awareness: International Student Mobility in China and the UK through a Non-Essentialist Lens .................................................................349
  Monika Foster, Edinburgh Napier University, UK

Chapter 15
Faculty Memoirs: Study Abroad Business Program in China ..................................................370
  Devi Akella, Albany State University, USA

Section 4
Global Health-Related Courses and International Field Placements

Chapter 16
Fostering Global Citizenship in Higher Education: Development of an International Course in Global Health ........................................................................................................398
  Lee Stoner, Massey University, New Zealand
  Lane Perry, Western Carolina University, USA
  Daniel Wadsworth, Massey University, New Zealand
  Mikell Gleason, University of Georgia, USA
  Michael A Tarrant, University of Georgia, USA
  Rachel Page, Massey University, New Zealand
  Krystina R. Stoner, University of Georgia, USA

Chapter 17
International Service-Learning: Study Abroad and Global Citizenship Development in a Post-Disaster Locale ........................................................................................................420
  Joellen E. Coryell, Texas State University, USA
  Trae Stewart, Texas State University, USA
  Zane C. Wubbena, Texas State University, USA
  Tereza Cristina Valverde-Poenie, Texas State University, USA
  B. J. Spencer, Texas State University, USA

Chapter 18
International Medical Experiences Outbound New Zealand: An Economic and Medical Workforce Strategy ........................................................................................................446
  Charles Mpofu, Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand

Chapter 19
International Healthcare Experiences: Caring While Learning and Learning While Caring ..............470
  Jon P. Wietholter, West Virginia University, USA
  Renier Coetzee, University of the Western Cape, South Africa
  Beth Nardella, West Virginia University, USA
  Scott E. Kincaid, University of Kentucky Healthcare, USA
  Douglas Slain, West Virginia University, USA
Chapter 20
Beyond Borders: International Social Work Field Education................................. 497
Linette Hawkins, RMIT University, Australia
Supriya Pattanayak, Centurion University, India & RMIT University, Australia
Jennifer Martin, RMIT University, Australia
Lew Hess, RMIT University, Australia

Section 5
Teacher Internationalization and Preservice Practicums Abroad

Chapter 21
Graduate Study Abroad: Student Learning, Pedagogy, and Outcomes .................... 514
John M. Dirkx, Michigan State University, USA
Kristin A. Janka, Michigan State University, USA
Julie Sinclair, Michigan State University, USA
Gina R. Vizvary, George Mason University, USA

Chapter 22
Teaching Practicums Abroad: Increasing the Professionalization of Preservice Foreign Language Teachers ........................................................................................................... 540
Karin Vogt, Heidelberg University of Education, Germany

Chapter 23
Beyond Accommodations: Study Abroad in Brazil, Teacher Preparation, and Global Consciousness ................................................................. 578
Fernanda Orsati, Husman Institute for Autism, USA
Lauren Shallish, The College of New Jersey, USA

Chapter 24
Integrating Study Abroad in Teacher Education: Enhancing the Curriculum ............ 601
Yasemin Kirkgöz, Cukurova University, Turkey

Chapter 25
Walking in English Learners’ Shoes: Preservice Teacher Struggles Result in Empathy .......... 621
Debbie Powell, University of North Carolina – Wilmington, USA
Roberta J. Aram, Missouri State University, USA

Chapter 26
Promotion of Internationalization of Teacher Education: A Case Study from Croatia ........ 651
Sanja Tatalović Vorkapić, University of Rijeka, Croatia
Section 6
Second Language Acquisition and Intercultural Awareness

Chapter 27
Disentangling Research on Study Abroad and Pronunciation: Methodological and Programmatic Considerations..................................................................................................................................... 673
  Charles L. Nagle, Iowa State University, USA
  Alfonso Morales-Front, Georgetown University, USA
  Colleen Moorman, Georgetown University, USA
  Cristina Sanz, Georgetown University, USA

Chapter 28
Perspectives on Mediated L2 Learning during Study Abroad: Identity, Motivation, and Learning Strategies............................................................................................................................................ 696
  Kaishan Kong, University of Wisconsin – Eau Claire, USA

Chapter 29
Language Learners’ Social Interaction during Study Abroad: Opportunities, Satisfaction, and Benefits .............................................................................................................................................................. 722
  Rikki Campbell, Monash University, Australia

Chapter 30
Intercultural Communication between East and West: Implications for Students on Study Abroad Programs to China............................................................................................................................................ 755
  Ping Yang, Western Sydney University, Australia

Compilation of References ............................................................................................................................................................... 778

About the Contributors................................................................................................................................................................. 879

Index........................................................................................................................................................................................................ 893