Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xx

Acknowledgment ............................................................................................................................... xxv

Introduction ........................................................................................................................................ xxvii

Section 1
Commentary

Chapter 1
Reflection: How Now Shapes the Future – Emerging Trends from the LCTL Trenches .................... 1
Jacques du Plessis, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, USA & University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

Section 2
Technologies across Continents

Chapter 2
The Structural and Dialogic Aspects of Language Massive Open Online Courses (LMOOCs): A Case Study .......................................................................................................................... 10
Carolin Fuchs, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong, China

Chapter 3
Mind Your Hashtags: A Sociopragmatic Study of Student Interpretations of French Native Speakers’ Tweets................................................................................................................................. 33
Geraldine Blattner, Florida Atlantic University, USA
Amanda Dalola, The University of South Carolina, USA
Lara Lomicka, The University of South Carolina, USA

Chapter 4
Challenges and Perspectives of Language Education Technology in Brazil: From Confronting Native Language Loss to Implementing EFL Classes .............................................................................. 59
Eliane Thaines Bodah, Thaines & Bodah Center for Education and Development, USA
Josh Meuth Alldredge, Community Partnership for Child Development, USA
Brian William Bodah, Washington State University, USA
Alcindo Neckel, IMED University, Brazil
Emanuelle Goellner, Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil
Chapter 5
Teaching Spanish in the Digital Age: A Flipped Classroom or Just Hybrid?.......................... 83
Clara Burgo, Loyola University Chicago, USA

Chapter 6
Beginning Chinese as a Foreign Language Online Course Design: Utilizing Multiple Digital Modes and Assessments ................................................................. 104
Bailu Li, Purdue University, USA
Sijia Yao, Purdue University, USA
Wei Hong, Purdue University, USA

Section 3
Web Collaboration across Languages

Chapter 7
Creating a Micro-Immersion Environment Through Telecollaboration ................................ 144
Tasha N. Lewis, Loyola University Maryland, USA

Chapter 8
Developing Key Competences for Life-Long Learning through Virtual Collaboration: Teaching ICT in English as a Medium of Instruction ................................................... 170
Margarita Vinagre, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain

Chapter 9
Translanguaging in Multilingual Chat Interaction: Opportunities for Intercomprehension between Romance Languages ................................................................. 188
Sílvia Melo-Pfeifer, University of Hamburg, Germany

Chapter 10
French-Chinese Dialogical Interaction via Web Collaborative Blog-Writing: Code-Switching to Extend Online Tandem Language Learning ............................................... 208
Ya Rao, Paul Valery University, France
Congcong Wang, University of Northern Iowa, USA
Jacob Bender, University of Iowa, USA

Section 4
Less Commonly Taught Languages

Chapter 11
Yiddish in the 21st Century: New Media to the Rescue of Endangered Languages .............. 236
Agnieszka Legutko, Columbia University, USA

Chapter 12
Korean Foreign Language Learning: Videoconferencing with Native Speakers.................. 253
Byung-jin Lim, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Danielle O. Pyun, Ohio State University, USA
Chapter 13
Globalization and Possibilities for Intercultural Awareness: Multimodal Arabic Culture Portfolios at a Catholic University .......................................................... 277
Sawsan Abbadi, Loyola University, USA

Section 5
Teacher Education and Learning Strategies

Chapter 14
The Role of Multi-Media in Expanding Pre-Service Teachers’ Understanding of Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Classrooms and Furthering Their Professional Identities ........................................ 296
Latisha Mary, Université de Lorraine, France
Andrea Young, Université de Strasbourg, France

Chapter 15
Investigating Mobile Assisted English Foreign Language Learning and Teaching in China: Issues, Attitudes and Perceptions ......................................................... 315
Haixia Liu, Michigan State University, USA & Beijing Normal University Zhuhai Campus, China
Wenhao Tao, Beijing Normal University Zhuhai Campus, China
William Cain, Michigan State University, USA

Chapter 16
Mexican Heritage ELL and Native English Speaker Interaction: A Case Study of Tandem Language Learning Strategies .............................................................. 334
Lisa Winstead, California State University, USA

Chapter 17
The Impact of Blog Peer Feedback on Improving Iranian English Foreign Language Students’ Writing ................................................................. 365
Mohsen Shahrokhi, Shahreza Branch, Islamic Azad University, Iran
Shima Taheri, Shahreza Branch, Islamic Azad University, Iran

Compilation of References ........................................................................... 387

About the Contributors .................................................................................. 449

Index .............................................................................................................. 457