Acknowledgment

It is now a pleasure to announce that the proposed book on Global Indicators of Economic and Political Convergence has been eventually unearthed. The ultimate success of developing such a huge volume of the edited book could not be accomplished if the contributions of the concerned bubbles of academicians all around the world were clubbed particularly when the entire work was controlled and managed from a rural belt of Indian subcontinent. Hence, it would be blameworthy if I do not acknowledge the offerings of the concerned academicians and other members of the society associated to the project.

Initially, I must recognize the IGI Global Team for approving the proposal and continuously guiding me at all stages of hindrances by means of their gracious and corroborative suggestions. I did not face any kind of non mutual aid from their parts and hence their sincere efforts were always praiseworthy. Secondly, I should be grateful to my research guides Professor Soumyen Sikdar of Indian Institute of Management, Calcutta, India and Professor Sarmila Banerjee of Calcutta University, India for incessantly encouraging me to undergo such a project and circulating the message to the potential chapter contributors of the said field. Thirdly, I must express gratitude to Dr. Amaresh Das, Dr. Igwe, E. Udeh and Dr. Frank Martin of College of Business, Southern University at New Orleans, USA, and Dr. Soumyananda Dinda, Dr. Maniklal Adhikary and Dr. Arindam Laha of The University of Burdwan, India, Dr. Kamal Ray of Katwa College, India and Dr. Chiranjib Neogi of Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta, India, for their uninterrupted efforts in helping review works in higher masses and editing the texts of the book besides added encouragements to me. Fourthly, I should acknowledge the efforts of the editorial advisory board members for reviewing the chapters with greater genuineness and providing me suggestions in an ceaseless manner notwithstanding their busy academic schedules. Fifthly, I must be grateful to Shri Goutam Mukherji of Katwa College for his sincere participation in editing a major part of the book with bubbles of good suggestions. Sixthly, I should honor all the contributing authors for their valuable chapter contributions and showing their patience for such a long duration project coming into veracity. I must admit the values they added to the existing literature through this edited volume.

Last but not the least I must be indebted to my parents, wife and daughter and other members of the family for their continuous encouragements, supports and sacrifice in carrying out the long lasting project. Of course, no one other than me, as the editor, remains completely responsible for the remaining errors, if any, still appear in the book.

Ramesh Chandra Das
Katwa College, India