Acknowledgment

It is important for me to take this opportunity to acknowledge the many people that worked hard to ensure that this special book came to light. I would like to give my heartfelt thanks to each and every one of the authors and reviewers who played vital roles in working to make this book a reality. This book was not only inspired by colleagues, authors and friends; it was also directly improved by their active involvement in its development. I have been most greatly influenced in writing this book by three professional heroes: Sigmund Freud, Carl Rogers and Aron. T. Beck. I am honored to consider Prof. Bahadur Singh Tej, G. Padmaja and Suvashisa Rana as mentors, and I would not have written this book without their inspiring examples of during my academic journey.

I would like to express my gratitude to Srinivas Kosgi for helping me in the process of selection, editing the chapters, in all aspects of design of this book. I would like to express my thanks to Amit Khanna, Pratima Kaushik and Ashwini R.; to the people who dedicated their time to come out of this book; all those who provided support, talked things over, offered comments, remarks and assisted in the editing phase. My special thanks go to Shamsi Akbar who is technically contributed many hours of her attention towards improving this book, as well during the process of proof reading and final submission of the manuscript.

Prior to this, call for chapters was heavily informed by L. Sam S. Manickam who is Indian clinical psychologist yahoo groups’ moderator, I thank him for facilitating at digital mail system to spread the words. I sincerely, thank and acknowledge faculty, staff and colleagues from DIMHANS, who have directly or indirectly contributed in synthesis of this book.

Last and foremost, I would like to thank my parents for blessing me throughout my career and writing this book. They have been my inspiration and motivation for continuing to improve my knowledge and move my career forward.

Finally, I would like to thank my publishers IGI to made my dream comes true.

Barre Vijay Prasad
Dharwad Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences, India