Table of Contents

Preface..............................................................................................................................................xvi

Section 1
Human Rights and Globalization: A General Framework

Chapter 1
Globalization and Human Rights: How Globalization Can Be a Tool to Protect the Human Rights ....................................................................................................................... 1
   Soumi Banerjee, Jadavpur University, India

Chapter 2
Globalization as a New Framework for Human Rights Protection...................... 17
   Reannon Navaratnam, Western Sydney University, Australia
   Isabelle Yeeun Lee, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Chapter 3
Human Rights Conditionality in the EU’s Newly Concluded Association Agreements with the Eastern Partners................................................................................................. 50
   Szilárd Gáspár-Szilágyi, University of Oslo, Norway

Section 2
Globalization, Democracy, and Political Autonomy

Chapter 4
The Evolution of Cyberspace, the Blogo-Sphere, and Their Impact on Political Autonomy and Political Participation............................................................. 81
   Michael Wabomba Masinde, Moi University, Kenya
Chapter 5
Free Media and Democracy in the Age of Globalization: An Analysis of Turkish Leading Newspaper ................................................................. 101
   Moazzam Naseer, International Islamic University, Pakistan
   Celalettin Aktaş, Istanbul Commerce University, Turkey
   Hassan Shehzad, International Islamic University, Pakistan

Chapter 6
Democracy and Child Rights Protection: The Problem of the Nigerian Constitution................................................................. 123
   Oluwafiehan Ogunde, University of Nottingham, UK

Section 3
Globalization, Migration, and Asylum

Chapter 7
Environmentally Forced Migration and Human Rights.............................. 146
   J. M. M. van der Vliet-Bakker, University of Leiden, The Netherlands

Chapter 8
Refoulement and Refugees................................................................. 181
   Jasper MacLennan Sugars, Independent Researcher, Australia

Chapter 9
Recent Developments in International Relations in the Light of the Syrian Crisis ................................................................. 198
   Alexia-Nefeli Douma, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Section 4
Globalization, New Human Rights, and Security

Chapter 10
Rights of Nature to Protect Human Rights in Times of Environmental Crisis ..................................................................................... 225
   Susana Borràs, Rovira i Virgili University, Spain

Chapter 11
Language Human Rights: A New Right Rising in the Era of Globalization ..... 262
   Hossein Davari, Damghan University, Iran
Chapter 12
Farmer Suicides in India: A Case of Globalisation Compromising on Human Rights ................................................................. 280

Saloni Jain, National Law University Delhi, India
Khushboo Sukhwani, National Law University Delhi, India

Chapter 13
States’ Procedural Obligations Regarding Private Military and Security Companies’ Activities ......................................................... 302

Zafeiris Tsiftzis, University of Bolton, UK

Chapter 14
Sports and Human Rights from an Ethical Perspective: The Relevance of Human Rights for Sports ...................................................... 337

Peter G. Kirchschlaeger, University of Lucerne, Switzerland & Yale University, USA

Compilation of References ................................................................................. 361

About the Contributors ..................................................................................... 412

Index.................................................................................................................. 418