Table of Contents

Preface........................................................................................................................................xiv

Acknowledgment ..........................................................................................................................xxvii

Chapter 1
Pedagogical Rationale for Flipped Learning and Digital Technology in Second Language Acquisition .......................................................................................................... 1
   Edo Forsythe, Hirosaki Gakuin University, Japan

Chapter 2
Teaching English for Academic Purposes through the Use of Digital Tools ..... 21
   Tal Levy, Ruppin Academic Center, Israel
   Leslie J Cohen, Ruppin Academic Center, Israel

Chapter 3
Studies of Flipping Classes with Asian Students................................................................. 64
   John Paul Loucky, Seinan JoGakuin University, Japan

Chapter 4
Flipped Instruction for Language Learning ............................................................................ 91
   Hilda Galvez, Pillar College, USA

Chapter 5
Motivating and Empowering Students’ Language Learning in Flipped Integrated English Classes .................................................................................................................. 108
   John Paul Loucky, Seinan JoGakuin University, Japan

Chapter 6
A New Era of Applying CALL to Enhance EFL Learners’ Lexical Knowledge139
   Feng Teng, Nanning University, China
Chapter 7
Gain Time and Differentiate to Meet Student Needs in University Learning Environments: A Flipped Learning Approach

Lauren Beth Rosen, University of Wisconsin, USA
Magara Maeda, University of Wisconsin – River Falls, USA
Natalia Roberts, University of Wisconsin – La Crosse, USA

Chapter 8
Flipped Instructional Technology: Developing MIS Competencies Applying Enterprise Resource Planning Software

Kevin Paul Barrons, Grand Valley State University, USA

Chapter 9
Flipping the Academic Writing Classroom

Steven Kirk, University of Tokyo, Japan
David Casenove, University of Tokyo, Japan

Chapter 10
Academic Writing in the Flipped EFL Classroom: A Case Study on Student Engagement in Oman

Afeef Ahmed Gasmi, Middle East College, Oman
Michael Thomas, University of Central Lancashire, UK

Chapter 11
Testing a CALL Effectiveness Model: Online Media Can Open New Learning Possibilities

John Paul Loucky, Seinan JoGakuin University, Japan

Chapter 12
Integrating Recent CALL Innovations into Flipped Instruction

Edo Forsythe, Hirosaki Gakuin University, Japan

Compilation of References

About the Contributors

Index