We would like to thank all the contributors to this book, for the privilege it has been to work with them during the development of this book, and supporting their initiative to share their research and reflections about design education. We also would like to thank the members of the editorial advisory board and additional reviewers, for all the useful leads, comments and help provided during the peer-review process. We thank the editorial team at IGI for trusting in our proposal, and particularly our assisting development editor; Courtney Tychinski, for her support and prompt reply to all of our questions. Similarly, we would like to acknowledge the Public Design Lab of The Hong Kong Polytechnic University for supporting the organization and publication of this book. Special thanks go to our friends and colleagues Cynthia Xiao and Elaine Wong, for reviewing the Chinese translation of the call for chapters that was sent to professors in China, and to our friend and colleague Satyakam Sharma, whose support during the peer-review stage of the process was essential. Finally we would like to thank the Research Grants Council of Hong Kong for the support through the Hong Kong PhD Fellowship Scheme, as well as the support of The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, both of which have been essential in making this book possible.
