The editors would like to thank the members of the Editorial Advisory Board for their assistance and suggestions at several stages in the preparation of this book, all the reviewers who shared their expertise in the review process of this publication, 1000001 Labs and ICM-CSIC which supported this project, and all our friends who gave us the inspiration to launch this book successfully.

The wellspring for Analyzing the Role of Citizen Science in Modern Research are 1000001 Labs’ and ICM-CSIC’s citizen-science projects. Since 2012, these organizations have conducted several citizen-science projects and related activities, involving thousands of citizens, and numerous authorities and organizations representing many different vantage points. This book has truly been a collaborative effort, with many individuals who have contributed very much in special ways, above and beyond the call. Every aspect of the book has benefited from their knowledge, experience and technical expertise, and their vital guidance and encouragement made this work a reality.
