First, we are deeply indebted to our editorial advisory board members for their keen insights and recommendations offered to our chapter authors: Anne-Marie Armstrong, Craig Cunningham, Lynda Rogerson, Bo I. Sandén, and Paul Thor.

We thank the wonderful visionaries who give us strength and challenge us to pioneer new pathways in virtual world education: Toni Hawkins-Scribner, Brad Aldridge, Mike McCrocklin, Mark Roy, Nancy Smith, Evelyn Milton, John Shepherd, Dean Hickenbotham, Gerald Goodfellow, John Sosik, Jeanne Holm, Todd Westhauser, Patti Abbott, Nancy Lorenzi, Tony Cook, Katrina Mitchell, Karen Cooper, Tami Griffith, Joyce Bettencourt, Michael Cerquoni (Nebadon Izumi), Chris Luchs, Jeremy Bailenson, Jaron Lanier, Jeff Hiles, Chris Collins, Gentle Heron, Gwenette Writer, John Pathfinder Lester, Philip Rosedale, Larry Johnson, Narmotur Pendragon, Crista Lopez, Grady Booch, Will Wright, Dave Fliesen, Nick Noakes, Balpient Hammerer, Astoria Luminos, Kay McLennan, Buffy Beale, Michael Hicks, Art Langer, Lee Knefelcamp, Caledonia Skytower, Shandon Loring, Ann Cudworth, Maria Korolov, Jared Bendis, Eric Hackathorn, Richard Hackathorn, Fred Fuchs, Hilary Mason, Peggy Sheehy, Marianne Malmstrom, Bronwyn Stuckey, AgileBill Krebs, and Terry Beaubois.

In addition, the editors would like to thank The Air University, Vanderbilt University, University of Michigan, Auburn University, Stanford University, Colorado Technical University, the New Media Consortium, the MOSES team, the OpenSimulator Community, the Kitely Community, the ISTE educators, VSTE, Lorelei Junot, the Illinois’ Alliance Library System, Suffern Middle School (the Ramapo Project), EdTech and Boise State University, Virtual Ability, Linden Research, the MacArthur Foundation, The Army Game Design Studio, Metanomics, and many more centers for learning in virtual worlds.

We also wish to thank our colleagues mapping new frontiers with immersive virtual learning: Cyrus Hush, Xhyra Graf, Sitearm Madonna, Douglas Maxwell, James McDermott, Aimee Weber, Jeroen Frans, Ruben Puentadora, Gardner Campbell, Kevin Feenan, Scott Merrick, Spiff Whitfield, Beth O’Connell (Ghostraven), Beverly McCarther, Larysa Nadolny, Chris Dede, Alan Levine, Bryan Alexander, Lev Gonick, Electric Sheep, Melanie Milland, Pooky Amsterdam, Nancy Sherman, Sendao Goodman, Shu Schiller, Justin Clark-Casey, Mark Sturgell, Sharon Tettegah, David Leasure, Douglas Gempel, Elizabeth Dorland, Mary Jane Willshire-Fairley, Richard Fairley, Charles Schroeder, Marjane Paulsen, and Steve LaVigne. We also want to express our deepest gratitude for the assistance offered to us by Claudia Poole, who finished editing her husband’s (Matt Poole) chapter for final publication. Matt tragically died from a rock climbing accident prior to the book’s publication.
