Acknowledgment

The editor would like to acknowledge the help of all involved in the collation and review process of the book, without whose support the project could not have been satisfactorily completed. Deep appreciation and gratitude is due to my collaborators in the Centre of Research on Education about Media, Information and Technology (CREMIT). Their presence, their intelligent work, and most of the reflections we normally share in our seminars and meetings are part of the ground from which this book grew.

Most of the authors of chapters included in this book also served as referees for chapters written by other authors. Thanks go to all those who provided constructive and comprehensive reviews. However, some of the reviewers must be mentioned as their reviews set the benchmark. Reviewers who provided the most comprehensive, critical, and constructive comments include: Paolo Ardizzone, Alessandra Carenzio, and Chiara Friso of the Catholic University of Milan, and Andrea Garavaglia of the State University of Bicocca in Milan. Support of the Department of Education at Catholic University of Milan is acknowledged for the availability of its spaces and structures to facilitate the review process.

Special thanks also go to the publishing team at IGI Global, whose contributions throughout the whole process from inception of the initial idea to final publication have been invaluable. In particular to Ross Miller, my original personal editorial assistant, to Jessica Thompson, who continuously prodded via e-mail for keeping the project on schedule, and to Michelle Potter, whose enthusiasm motivated me to initially accept her invitation for taking on this project.

Special thanks go to Ignacio Aguaded for his unselfish permission to use excerpts from the conference materials of the Hispano-luso Congress held in Huelva (Spain) in October 2005. I would also like to thank Alessandra Carenzio, Chiara Rizzi, and Elena Tassalini for their factive help in book editing, and Simona Ferrari, who has worked with me since 1995 and read a semi-final draft of the manuscript providing helpful suggestions for enhancing its content. And last but not least, my wife Alessandra and my sons David and Francesco: the happy confusion they create in our home is a form of support and encouragement for my work.

In closing, I wish to thank all of the authors—dear friends and respected colleagues—for their insights and excellent contributions to this book.
