Table of Contents

Preface ................................................................................................................................................ xiv

Acknowledgment ................................................................................................................................ xxv

Section I

The Longue durée

Chapter I
Electronic Constitution: A Braudelian Perspective ................................................................. 1

Francesco Amoretti, University of Salerno, Italy

Chapter II
Old and New Rights: E-Citizenship in Historical Perspective .................................................. 20

Mauro Di Meglio, University of Naples “l’Orientale”, Italy

Enrico Gargiulo, University of Naples, Italy

Section II

The Conjuncture: The Geopolitics of Technological Innovations

Chapter III
International Organizations, E-Government and Development ............................................. 41

Oreste Ventrone, University of Naples Federico II, Italy

Chapter IV
American Electronic Constitution: Reinventing Government and Neo-Liberal Corporatism ....... 54

Fortunato Musella, University of Naples Federico II, Italy

Chapter V
The European Administrative Space and E-Government Policies: Between Integration and Competition ......................................................................................................................... 71

Francesco Amoretti, University of Salerno, Italy

Fortunato Musella, University of Naples Federico II, Italy
Chapter VI
The EU and the Information Society: From E-Knowledge to E-Inclusion, in Search of Global Leadership

Clementina Casula, University of Cagliari, Italy

Chapter VII

Nicolas Pejout, Centre d’Etude d’Afrique Noire (CEAN), France

Chapter VIII
ICT Challenges and Opportunities for Institutionalizing Democracy in Ghana: An Integrative Review of the Literature

Joseph Ofori-Dankwa, Saginaw Valley State University, USA
Connie Ofori-Dankwa, University of Michigan, USA

Chapter IX
The Politics of the Governing the Information and Communications Technologies in East Asian Authoritarian States: Case Study of China

Chin-fu Hung, National Cheng Kung University, Taiwan

Section III
Themes and Issues

Chapter X
Information Networks, Internet Governance and Innovation in World Politics

Claudia Padovani, University of Padova, Italy
Elena Pavan, University of Trento, Italy

Chapter XI
Who Governs Cyberspace? Internet Governance and Power Structures in Digital Networks

Mauro Santaniello, University of Salerno, Italy

Chapter XII
Measuring ICT: Political and Methodological Aspects

Diego Giannone, University of Salerno, Italy

Chapter XIII
The Fabrication of Networked Socialities

Paolo Landri, Cnr and University of Naples, Italy
Chapter XIV
Virtual Nations ......................................................................................................................... 224

William Sims Bainbridge, National Science Foundation, USA

Chapter XV
A Research Agenda for the Future .......................................................................................... 242

Francesco Amoretti, University of Salerno, Italy

Compilation of References ........................................................................................................ 246

About the Contributors ............................................................................................................. 274

Index ........................................................................................................................................ 278