Acknowledgment

The editor wishes to thank all the authors for their insights and excellent contributions to this book. The editor would like to also acknowledge the invaluable help of all people involved in the review process of this book, without whose support the project could not have been successfully completed. Most of authors of the chapters included in this book also served as referees for chapters by other authors. Constructive and comprehensive reviews, which have involved two rigorous review rounds, have determined the success of this book. Complete list of reviewers is reported next.

The editor is also grateful to all the staff at IGI Global whose contribution to the whole process from the initial idea of the book to the final publication has been invaluable.
