Table of Contents

Foreword........................................................................................................................................... xviii
Preface.................................................................................................................................................. xx
Acknowledgment............................................................................................................................. xxvii

Section 1
Foundations and Theory

Chapter 1
Games, Simulations, and Simulation Games for Learning: Definitions and Distinctions................. 1
   Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
   Lise Renaud, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
   David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 2
Effective Educational Games.............................................................................................................. 27
   Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada

Chapter 3
Simulation in Health Professional Education ...................................................................................... 51
   David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 4
The Role of Narrative in Educational Games and Simulations ....................................................... 68
   Jim Bizzocchi, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 5
Does Fantasy Enhance Learning in Digital Games?........................................................................ 84
   Mahboubeh Asgari, Simon Fraser University, Canada
   David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Chapter 6
Gender and Digital Gameplay: Theories, Oversights, Accidents, and Surprises
Jennifer Jenson, York University, Canada
Suzanne de Castell, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 7
Games in Health Education: A Survey of Pre-Service Teachers
Claire IsaBelle, University of Ottawa, Canada
Margot Kaszap, Laval University, Canada

Chapter 8
Video Games and the Challenge of Engaging the ‘Net’ Generation
Anthony Gurr, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Section 2
Design and Prototyping

Chapter 9
Educational Games: Moving from Theory to Practice
Suzanne de Castell, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Jennifer Jenson, York University, Canada
Nicholas Taylor, York University, Canada

Chapter 10
Designing a Simulator for Teaching Ethical Decision-Making
Michael Power, Laval University, Canada
Lyse Langlois, Laval University, Canada

Chapter 11
Design of a Socioconstructivist Game for the Classroom: Theoretical and Empirical Considerations
Margot Kaszap, Laval University, Canada
Claire IsaBelle, University of Ottawa, Canada
Sylvie Rail, Laval University, Canada

Chapter 12
Online Multiplayer Games: A Powerful Tool for Learning Communication and Teamwork
Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
Louis Villardier, Télé-université, Canada
Wilfried Probst, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
Chapter 13
Advancing the Study of Educational Gaming: A New Tool for Researchers ........................................ 195

Herbert Wideman, York University, Canada
Ronald Owston, York University, Canada
Christine Brown, Ryerson University, Canada

Chapter 14
Designing Socially Expressive Character Agents to Facilitate Learning .............................................. 213

Steve DiPaola, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 15
The Use of Virtual Reality in Clinical Psychology Research: Focusing on Approach and Avoidance Behaviors................................................................................................................................. 231

Patrice Renaud, University of Quebec in Outaouais / Institut Philippe-Pinel de Montréal, Canada
Sylvain Chartier, University of Ottawa, Canada
Paul Fedoroff, University of Ottawa, Canada
John Bradford, University of Ottawa, Canada
Joanne L. Rouleau, University of Montreal, Canada
Jean Proulx, University of Montreal, Canada
Stéphane Bouchard, University of Quebec in Outaouais, Canada

Section 3
Learning Efficacy

Chapter 16
The Efficacy of Games and Simulations for Learning.................................................................................. 252

Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
Lise Renaud, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 17
Collaborative Online Multimedia Problem–Based Learning Simulations (COMPS).......................... 271

Robyn Schell, Simon Fraser University, Canada
David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 18
Games for Children with Long-Term Health Problems............................................................................. 286

Carolyn Watters, Dalhousie University, Canada
Sageev Oore, Saint Mary’s University, Canada
Hadi Kharrazi, Dalhousie University, Canada
Chapter 19
Handheld Games: Can Virtual Pets Make a Difference? ................................................................. 302
  Yueh-Feng Lily Tsai, Simon Fraser University, Canada
  David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 20
The Learning Impact of Violent Video Games .............................................................................. 312
  Alice Ireland, Simon Fraser University, Canada
  Nathaniel Payne, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Chapter 21
A Study of Biofeedback in a Gaming Environment ....................................................................... 326
  Xin Du, Simon Fraser University, Canada
  Stephen R. Campbell, Simon Fraser University, Canada
  David Kaufman, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Section 4
Special In-Depth Section on Game Shell and Game Creation

Chapter 22
Initial Analysis for Creating a Generic Online Educational Game Shell.......................................... 346
  Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
  Lise Renaud, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
  Mathieu Gauvin, Laval University, Canada

Chapter 23
Designing a Generic Educational Game Shell............................................................................... 366
  Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada

Chapter 24
Usability Guidelines for a Generic Educational Game Shell............................................................... 390
  Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada

Chapter 25
Validation of a Generic Educational Game Shell ........................................................................... 401
  Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
Chapter 26
Formative Evaluation of an Online Educational Game ......................................................... 416
  Louise Sauvé, Télé-université, Canada
  Lise Renaud, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
  Jérôme Elissalde, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada
  Gabriela Hanca, Télé-université, Canada

Compilation of References .................................................................................................... 434

About the Contributors ......................................................................................................... 484

Index ...................................................................................................................................... 493