Enterprise Systems Education in the 21st Century

Table of Contents

Preface........................................................................................................................................vi

Section I: Developing an ES Curriculum

Chapter I
Critical Success Factors for Implementing ERP Systems as a Vehicle for Business Curriculum Integration at a Large State University.........................................................1
Kenneth E. Murphy, Willamette University, USA

Chapter II
Implementing ERP Education in a Changing Environment and Different Degree Programs.........................................................................................................................27
Stefan Koch, Vienna University of Economics and BA, Austria

Chapter III
ERP Education: Hosting, Visiting, and Certifying .................................................................41
Andrew Stein, Victoria University, Australia
Paul Hawking, Victoria University, Australia
Brendan McCarthy, Victoria University, Australia

Chapter IV
The Business Process-Driven Undergraduate IS Curriculum:
A Transition from Classical CIS to Emerging BIT ..........................................................52
Andrew Targowski, Western Michigan University, USA
Bernard Han, Western Michigan University, USA
Chapter V
The ERP-Oriented Graduate IT Program ................................................................. 74
  Andrew Targowski, Western Michigan University, USA
  Bernard Han, Western Michigan University, USA

Section II: Examples — How to Teach Specific Business Processes of ES

Chapter VI
Teaching ERP Concepts in a Capstone Course.................................................... 95
  T. M. Rajkumar, Miami University, USA
  Mahesh Sarma, Miami University, USA

Chapter VII
Teaching an Enterprise Project as a Capstone Course of the
CIS/BIT Program ................................................................................................. 113
  Andrew Targowski, Western Michigan University, USA

Chapter VIII
Teaching Human Resource Management Using SAP ....................................... 129
  Satish P. Deshpande, Western Michigan University, USA
  Andrew Targowski, Western Michigan University, USA

Chapter IX
Teaching Operations Management with Enterprise Software .......................... 138
  R. Lawrence LaForge, Clemson University, USA

Chapter X
Using SAP for SCM Applications and Design:
A Study of the Supply Chain Management Process ........................................ 152
  Mahesh Sarma, Miami University, USA
  David C. Yen, Miami University, USA

Chapter XI
Using SAP for ERP Applications and Design:
A Case Study of the Sales and Distribution Process .......................................... 176
  Mahesh Sarma, Miami University, USA
  David C. Yen, Miami University, USA

Section III: Examples — How to Teach Specific IT Topics in ES

Chapter XII
Putting Enterprise Systems in a Larger ICT Context:
A Pedagogical Framework .................................................................................. 202
  Thomas Rienzo, Western Michigan University, USA
  J. Michael Tarn, Western Michigan University, USA
  James Danenberg, Western Michigan University, USA
Chapter XIII
Enterprise Architecture and Enterprise Information Architecture: What is It and How to Teach It

Frank Lin, California State University of San Bernardino, USA
Leo Liu, Oracle Corporation, China

Chapter XIV
Teaching ERP with Microsoft Business Solutions — Great Plains™

Muhammad A. Razi, Western Michigan University, USA

Chapter XV
Teaching Integrated Business Processes via ERP Configuration

Bret Wagner, Western Michigan University, USA
Thomas Rienzo, Western Michigan University, USA

Chapter XVI
Teaching ERP Programming Using SAP ABAP/4

Bernard Han, Western Michigan University, USA

Chapter XVII
A Course on Enterprise Portal Development and Management: Issues, Challenges, and Solutions

Kuanchin Chen, Western Michigan University, USA

Section IV: Industrial Support of ES Education

Chapter XVIII
The Status of SAP-Related Education: Results of a Global Survey

Michael Rosemann, Queensland University of Technology, Australia
Amelia A. Maurizio, SAP America, Global Education Alliances, USA

Chapter XIX
Supporting Enterprise Systems Across the Business Curriculum: The Microsoft Dynamics™ Academic Alliance

Janelle Daugherty, Microsoft, USA
Sandra B. Richtermeyer, Xavier University, USA

Chapter XX
Enterprise Systems Education: A Vendor’s Approach — Oracle University’s Practice

Frank Lin, California State University of San Bernardino, USA
Tony Coulson, California State University of San Bernardino, USA

About the Authors

Index