Table of Contents

Foreword ................................................................................................................................. xiii
Preface ....................................................................................................................................... xv
Acknowledgment................................................................................................................... xxi

Section 1
Being and Becoming IT Professionals

Chapter 1
Women, Men and Programming: Knowledge, Metaphors and Masculinity............................... 1
  Inger Boivie, Guide Konsult AB, Sweden

Chapter 2
New Gender Relations in the Transforming IT-Industry of Malaysia........................................ 25
  Ulf Mellström, Luleå University of Technology, Sweden

Chapter 3
Women in computer science in Afghanistan........................................................................... 48
  Eva Maria Hoffmann, Technische Universität, Germany

Section 2
Working with and Preparing to Work with IT

Chapter 4
For Me it Doesn’t Matter Where I put my Information: Enactments of Agency,
Mutual Learning, and Gender in IT Design............................................................................. 65
  Johanna Sefyrin, Mid Sweden University, Sweden
Chapter 5
Attaching People and Technology: Between E and Government

Christina Mörtberg, University of Umeå, Sweden & University of Oslo, Norway
Pirjo Elovaara, Blekinge Institute of Technology, Sweden

Chapter 6
Against All Odds, From All-Girls Schools to All-Boys Workplaces: Women’s Unsuspecting Trajectory into the UK ICT Sector

Marie Griffiths, University of Salford, UK
Helen Richardson, University of Salford, UK

Section 3
Representation in Media

Chapter 7
Challenging Gender Stereotypes Using Virtual Pedagogical Characters

Agneta Gulz, Lund University, Sweden
Magnus Haake, Lund University, Sweden

Chapter 8
Absent Women: Research on Gender Relations in IT Education Mediated by Swedish Newspapers

Martha Blomqvist, Uppsala University, Sweden

Chapter 9
Heteronormativity Revisited: Adolescents’ Educational Choices, Sexuality and Soaps

Els Rommes, Radboud University, The Netherlands

Section 4
Adult Education

Chapter 10
Approaching Higher Education: A Life-World Story of Home-Places, Work-Places and Learn-Places

Shirley Booth, University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa & University of Gothenburg, Sweden
Eva Wigforss, Lund University, Sweden

Chapter 11
Gendered Distance Education Spaces: Keeping Women in Place?

Annika Bergviken-Rensfeldt, University of Gothenburg, Sweden
Sandra Riomar, University of Gothenburg, Sweden
Chapter 12
Computer Courses in Adult Education in a Gender Perspective ......................................................... 209
    Minna Salminen-Karlsson, Uppsala University, Sweden

Section 5
Digital Learning

Chapter 13
Gendered Knowledge Production in Universities in a Web 2.0 World.................................................. 231
    Gill Kirkup, Open University, UK

Chapter 14
Queen Bees, Workers and Drones: Gender Performance in Virtual Learning Groups ....................... 244
    Gwyneth Hughes, Institute of Education, UK

Chapter 15
Towards a Feminist Manifesto for E-Learning: Principles to Inform Practices ................................. 255
    Gill Kirkup, Open University, UK
    Sigrid Schmitz, University of Freiburg, Gemany
    Erna Kotkamp, Utrecht University Netherlands
    Els Rommes, Radboud University Nijmegen
    Aino-Maija Hiltunen, University of Helsinki, Finland

Compilation of References ................................................................................................................. 275

About the Contributors ...................................................................................................................... 301

Index .................................................................................................................................................. 307