Acknowledgment

Assembling this book in its current form was a challenging collaborative effort.
We would like to express our gratitude to the editorial advisory board members who helped during the review phase, contributed to the foreword and chapters. Our editorial advisory board consisted of experts in the fields of neuroscience, computational neuroscience, psychology, affective interaction design, affective computing, affect recognition, affective social computing, human-computer interaction and emotion modeling. Many thanks to Nadia Bianchi-Berthouze, Emrah Duzel, Hatice Gunes, Magy Seif El-Nasr, Mark Ashton Smith and John Taylor.

We invited our colleagues to review chapters during the review phase to obtain impartial perspectives and to enhance the interdisciplinary content. We would like to applaud our external reviewers: Umut Baysan, Murat Perit Çakır, Uğur Halıcı, Annette Hohenberger, Buciu Ioan, Albert Ali Salah and Bilge Say for their valuable input regarding how to improve the individual chapters.

We used the existing infrastructure, computational facilities and Internet services of Middle East Technical University while working on several aspects of this book. We appreciate the efforts of the system administrators and staff who have participated in this production behind the scenes.

Finally, we would like to express our sincere thanks to our development editors, Elizabeth Ardner, Dave de Ricco and Myla Harty for their continuous support throughout the production phase.
