Table of Contents

Foreword.............................................................................................................................................. xv

Preface................................................................................................................................................ xvii

Acknowledgment................................................................................................................................ xx

Volume I

Chapter 1
The Role of Information Communication Technologies in Enriching Adult Education Theory Building.................................................................................................................... 1

Judith Parker, Columbia University, USA

Chapter 2
How Adults Learn Through Information Technologies........................................................................ 17

Lesley S. J. Farmer, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 3
Comprehensive Distance Learning Design for Adult Education.......................................................... 37

Kathleen P. King, University of South Florida, USA

Chapter 4
Web 2.0 and the Actualization of the Ideals of Adult Education............................................................. 52

Marc G. Weinstein, Florida International University, USA
Tonette S. Rocco, Florida International University, USA
Maria S. Plakhotnik, Florida International University, USA

Chapter 5
Conventional Online Teaching vs. Andragogical Online Teaching.................................................... 68

Victor C. X. Wang, California State University, Long Beach, USA
Chapter 6
Towards a Theory of Learned Technological Helplessness ......................................................... 83

Joy E. Harris, University of Missouri - Kansas City, USA

Chapter 7
The Use of Web 2.0 Technologies in the ESL Classroom .............................................................. 102

Melissa Wright, University of Southern Mississippi, USA
Lilian H. Hill, University of Southern Mississippi, USA

Chapter 8
Framing a Philosophy for 21st Century Global Recurrent Education:
Considerations on the Role of the Adult Educator........................................................................ 118

Gabriele Strohschen, DePaul University, USA

Chapter 9
Adapting Adult Learning Theories for Online Learning ............................................................... 135

Ernest W. Brewer, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA
Nancy Headlee, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA

Chapter 10
Impact of Virtual Learning Environments on the Future of Adult Education and Training .......... 154

David Deggs, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, USA
Kenda Grover, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, USA
Kit Kacirek, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, USA

Chapter 11
Delightfully, Difficult Work: Transformation through Teaching and Learning............................. 169

Karen Weller Swanson, Mercer University, USA

Chapter 12
Technology-Enhanced Information Literacy in Adult Education ................................................. 184

Lesley S. J. Farmer, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 13
Promoting Digital Competences through Social Software: A Case Study at the Rovira i Virgili University ........................................................... 204

Teresa Torres-Coronas, Universitat Rovira i Virgili, Spain
María Arántzazu Vidal-Blasco, Universitat Rovira i Virgili, Spain

Chapter 14
Personal Learning Networks: Implications for Self-Directed Learning in the Digital Age ............. 226

Teresa J. Carter, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA
Jeffrey S. Nugent, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA
Chapter 15
Key Aspects of Teaching and Learning in the Online Environment........................................241
  Maria M. Witte, Auburn University, USA
  James E. Witte, Auburn University, USA
  Suzy Westenkirchner, Auburn University, USA

Chapter 16
Structuring and Facilitating Online Learning through Learning / Course Management Systems.....257
  Shalin Hai-Jew, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 17
Online Learning: An Examination of Contexts in Corporate, Higher Education, and K-12 Environments ..............................................................275
  Chris Allen Thomas, University of Pennsylvania, USA
  Wendy M. Green, University of Pennsylvania, USA
  Doug Lynch, University of Pennsylvania, USA

Chapter 18
Cross-Cultural Learning and Intercultural Competence ..........................................................293
  Pi-Chi Han, University of Missouri-St. Louis, USA

Chapter 19
Applying Web 2.0 Technologies to Traditional Teaching..........................................................308
  Royce Ann Collins, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 20
Insuring Self-Direction and Flexibility in Distance Learning for Adults: Using Contracts ..........322
  Mary C. Ware, State University of NY – Cortland, USA

Chapter 21
Using Qualitative Methods to Evaluate Distance Education: A Case Study ..........................337
  Jules K. Beck, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, USA
  Kit Kacirek, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, USA

Chapter 22
Women, Information and Communication Technologies, and Lifelong Learning ..................360
  Catherine J. Irving, St. Francis Xavier University, Canada
  Leona M. English, St. Francis Xavier University, Canada
Volume II

Chapter 23
Gender Impact on Adult Education................................................................. 377
Lesley S. J. Farmer, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 24
Comparing Lecturing and Small Group Discussions..................................... 396
Gregory C. Petty, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA
Ernest W. Brewer, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA

Chapter 25
Design Tools and Processes for Building E-Learning .................................. 415
Shalin Hai-Jew, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 26
Participatory and Appreciative Adult Learning and Reflection in Virtual Environments: Towards the Development of an Appreciative Stewardship...................................................... 435
Simona Marchi, University of Rome, Italy
Emma Ciceri, Postel, Italy

Chapter 27
Successful Strategies in the Online Learning Environment Based on Theories, Styles, and Characteristics ................................................................. 451
Leane B. Skinner, Auburn University, USA

Chapter 28
Teaching Adults across Cultures, Distance, and Learning Preferences: Universal Tools for the 21st Century ................................................................. 469
Gabriele Strohschen, DePaul University, USA

Chapter 29
Library Issues in Adult Online Education....................................................... 485
Linda Marie Golian-Lui, University of Hawaii at Hilo, USA
Suzy Westenkirchner, Auburn University, USA

Chapter 30
Online Adult Education: Policy, Access, Completion and Equity .................. 506
Victor C. X. Wang, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 31
Blended Learning Primer .................................................................................. 521
Geraldine Torrisi-Steele, Griffith University, Australia
Chapter 32
Using Technology in the Assessment of Adult Learners in Online Settings ........................................ 539
Steven W. Schmidt, East Carolina University, USA
Jeremy Dickerson, East Carolina University, USA
Eric Kisling, East Carolina University, USA

Chapter 33
Self-Assessments in Contemporary Adult E-Learning ........................................................................ 557
Shalin Hai-Jew, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 34
Effects of Basic Computer Training on the Self-Efficacy of Adult Learner’s Utilization of Online Learning ................................................................. 578
Gregory C. Petty, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA
Iryna P. Loboda, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA

Chapter 35
Digital Media: Opportunities for Voice and Empowerment in Adult Learning ................................. 595
Kathleen P. King, University of South Florida, USA

Chapter 36
Integrating Digital Photography into Adult Education .................................................................. 609
Laura D. Hoffman, Saddleback Valley Unified School District Adult Education, USA

Chapter 37
Facilitation of Online Teaching and Learning ...................................................................................... 626
Geraint Lang, Anglia Ruskin University, UK

Chapter 38
Community Service Learning: Preparing Female Students in the United Arab Emirates for the Workplace ................................................................. 643
Sandra Poirier, Middle Tennessee State University, USA
Deborah G. Wooldridge, Bowling Green State University, USA
Gloysis Mayers, Zayed University, UAE
Nancy Sonleitner, University of Tennessee at Martin, USA
Chris Coughlin, Chico State University, USA

Chapter 39
Social Presence in an Online Learning Environment ................................................................................. 656
Susan J. Crim, University of Tennessee, USA
Thomas G. Reio, Jr., Florida International University, USA
Chapter 40
Principles of Student Assessment in Adult Education ................................. 674
James B. Martin, Army’s Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, USA

Chapter 41
Gaming in Adult Education ........................................................................ 687
Lesley S. J. Farmer, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 42
Gender and Collaborative Knowledge Building in an Online Community of Inquiry............. 707
Constance E. Wanstreet, The Ohio State University, USA
David S. Stein, The Ohio State University, USA

Chapter 43
Participatory and Appreciative Action and Reflection in Adult Learning:
Transformation as Appreciative Reflection ............................................. 723
Simona Marchi, University of Rome, Italy

Chapter 44
Integrating Technology for Effective Adult Education ................................... 740
Victor C. X. Wang, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Volume III

Chapter 45
Self-Efficacy Beliefs of Adult Learners Utilizing Information Communication Technologies .......... 753
Gregory C. Petty, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA
Carol A. Carter, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA

Chapter 46
Traditional Instructional Design for Online Learning vs. Unconventional Instructional Design .... 768
Ernest W. Brewer, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA
Stephen D. Stockton, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, USA

Chapter 47
Helping Faculty Design Online Courses in Higher Education .......................... 779
Victor M. Hernández-Gantes, University of South Florida, USA

Chapter 48
Blended Learning: The Best of Both Worlds .................................................. 795
Karen Weller Swanson, Mercer University, USA
Mary Kayler, George Mason University, USA
Chapter 49
Perceived Neutrality of Technology and its Potential Impact: Recontextualizing Technology into Adult Learning Settings using a Cultural Studies Approach .................................................. 810
   Jim I. Berger, Western Kentucky University, USA

Chapter 50
Evaluating Teaching in Adult Education ................................................................. 824
   James B. Martin, Army’s Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, USA
   Royce Ann Collins, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 51
Informal Adult Learning in Simulated and Virtual Environments.......................... 838
   Elisabeth E. Bennett, Tufts University and Baystate Health, USA

Chapter 52
Resourcing Equity for Online Learners: Supporting Students-with-Limitations ........... 857
   Andréé Robinson-Neal, USA Pacific University, USA

Chapter 53
Virtual Collaboration .................................................................................................... 876
   Shalin Hai-Jew, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 54
Blackboard Learning System on College Campuses .............................................. 896
   Janaki Santhiveeran, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 55
Initial Stages to Create Online Graduate Communities: Assessment and Development..... 911
   Leping Liu, University of Nevada, USA
   Livia D’Andrea, University of Nevada, USA

Chapter 56
Boundaryless Work and the Role of Mobile ICT...................................................... 927
   Ragnhild Mogren, Stockholm University, Sweden
   Camilla Thunborg, Stockholm University, Sweden

Chapter 57
Online Learning and Instruction in Health: Addressing the Demands for Education and Training through Computer-Based Technologies........................................... 942
   Michelle Lee D’Abundo, University of North Carolina, USA
   Cara Lynn Sidman, University of North Carolina, USA
Chapter 58
Staying Legal and Ethical in Global E-Learning Course and Training Developments:
An Exploration
Shalin Hai-Jew, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 59
Increasing Adult Learner Engagement in E-Learning Courses through Learner Case Writing
Rosemary B. Closson, University of South Florida, USA
Carmeda Stokes, University of South Florida, USA

Chapter 60
Knowledge Building Online: The Promise and the Process
David S. Stein, The Ohio State University, USA
Constance E. Wanstreet, The Ohio State University, USA
Hilda R. Glazer, Capella University, USA

Chapter 61
Age, Race and Gender Issues Related to On-Line Learning
M. F. Stuck, State University of New York, Suny Oswego, USA
Mary. C. Ware, State University of NY – Cortland, USA

Chapter 62
Virtually Onboarding and Supporting Adult Students in College Using Web 2.0 Technologies
Pamela M. Golubski, Carnegie Mellon University, USA

Chapter 63
Bringing Together Personal Learning, Higher Education Institutional Elements, and Global Support for a Re-Orientation toward a Focus on Lifelong Learning and Education
John A. Henschke, Lindenwood University, USA

Chapter 64
Program Development in Adult Education: An Example
Victor C. X. Wang, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Chapter 65
Future Methods of Adult Education
John K. Hope, University of Auckland, New Zealand

Chapter 66
Adult Education and Globalization
Manuel Ahedo, University Rovira i Virgili, Spain
Chapter 67
Barriers to Adult Education Participation, Distance Education, and Adult Learning

E. Paulette Isaac, University of Missouri-St. Louis, USA

Chapter 68
Using Principles of Andragogy to Teach Writing to Graduate Students Online

Beth Kania-Gosche, Lindenwood University, USA