Table of Contents

Foreword ............................................................................................................................................. x

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xi

Acknowledgment ................................................................................................................................... xv

Section 1
Trends in Global Healthcare

Chapter 1
Will Comparative Effectiveness Research Lead to Healthcare Rationing?................................. 1
Mary Brown, Capella University, USA

Chapter 2
Health Care Information Systems and the Risk of Privacy Issues for the Disabled...................... 22
John Beswetherick, Capella University, USA

Chapter 3
Hippocratic Database and Active Enforcement ............................................................................... 43
Terry Dillard, Dillard Systems, LLC

Chapter 4
Implementation Issues on a National Electronic Health Record Network .................................... 50
John McGaha, Capella University, USA

Chapter 5
Health Kiosk Technologies ............................................................................................................... 66
Robert S. McIndoe, Logica UK, UK

Chapter 6
eHealth Governance, A Key Factor for Better Health Care: Implementation of IT Governance to Ensure Better care through Better eHealth ................................................................. 72
Elena Beratarbide, CISA, National Health Service Fife, Scotland
Tom Kelsey, University of St. Andrews, Scotland
Section 2
Security in the Healthcare Industry

Chapter 7
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Considerations for Healthcare Technology ................. 93
Edward M. Goldberg, Capella University, USA

Chapter 8
E-Discovery and Health Care IT: An Investigation................................................................. 101
Vasupradha Vasudevan, Management Sciences and System, USA
H.R. Rao, Management Sciences and System, USA

Chapter 9
The Nationwide Health Information Network: A Biometric Approach to Prevent Medical Identity Theft ................................................................. 115
Omotunde Adeyemo, TEKsystems, USA

Chapter 10
A Medical Data Trustworthiness Assessment Model............................................................. 130
Bandar Alhaqbani, Queensland University of Technology, Australia
Colin J. Fidge, Queensland University of Technology, Australia

Chapter 11
Using Biometrics to Secure Patient Health Information......................................................... 151
Dennis Backherms, Capella University, USA

Section 3
Ethical Implications of Security Monitoring In in Health Care

Chapter 12
Ubiquitous Use of RFID in the Health Industry ................................................................. 166
Mary Brown, Capella University, USA

Chapter 13
Caught in the Web: The Internet and the Demise of Medical Privacy................................. 179
Keith A. Bauer, USA

Chapter 14
Nursing, Ethics, and Healthcare Policy: Bridging Local, National and International Perspectives ...... 200
Marilyn Jaffe-Ruiz, Pace University, USA
Sarah Matulis, Pace University, USA
Patricia Sayre, Pace University, USA
Chapter 15
Why Doesn’t Information Systems Vision Exist in the Healthcare Sector?................................. 207
Matthew W. Guah, Claflin University, USA

Compilation of References .............................................................................................................. 218

About the Contributors ................................................................................................................... 239

Index................................................................................................................................................ 247