Table of Contents

Preface ........................................................................................................................................... xvii

Section 1
Introduction

Chapter 1
Perspectives on Patterns........................................................................................................ 1
   Christian Kohls, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany
   Joachim Wedekind, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany

Chapter 2
Patterns as an Analysis Framework to Document and Foster Excellent E-Learning Designs......... 19
   Christian Kohls, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany

Chapter 3
The Essential Structure of Teaching Method Descriptions................................................. 41
   Susanne Neumann, University of Vienna, Austria
   Michael Derntl, University of Vienna, Austria
   Petra Oberhuemer, University of Vienna, Austria

Section 2
Patterns and Their Relations to Other Approaches

Chapter 4
Patterns and Instructional Methods: A Practitioner’s Approach........................................... 61
   Joachim Wedekind, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany
Chapter 5
Linking CSCL Script Design Patterns: Connections between Assessment and Learning Patterns .......... 72
Eloy D. Villasclaras-Fernández, University of Valladolid, Spain
Davinia Hernández-Leo, Pompeu Fabra University, Spain
Juan I. Asensio-Pérez, University of Valladolid, Spain
Yannis Dimitriadis, University of Valladolid, Spain
Alejandra Martínez-Monés, University of Valladolid, Spain

Chapter 6
Evaluating Learning Designs through the Formal Representation of Pedagogical Patterns ............... 86
Diana Laurillard, London Knowledge Lab, UK
Dejan Ljubojevic, London Knowledge Lab, UK

Section 3
Finding Patterns: Theory of Methodology

Chapter 7
Embedding Design Patterns in a Methodology for a Design Science of E-Learning.................. 107
Yishay Mor, London Knowledge Lab, UK

Chapter 8
Visualizing Learning Processes Using Didactic Process Maps.................................................. 135
Beat Döbeli Honegger, University of Teacher Education Central Switzerland, Switzerland
Michele Notari, Bern University of Teacher Education, Switzerland

Chapter 9
On the Implications of the Social Web Environment for Pedagogical Patterns ...................... 149
Pankaj Kamthan, Concordia University, Canada

Chapter 10
Navigational Paths and Didactical Patterns.............................................................................. 170
Stefan Iske, University of Cologne, Germany

Section 4
Pattern Examples

Chapter 11
Towards Pedagogical Patterns on Feedback............................................................................... 181
Axel W. Schmolitzky, University of Hamburg, Germany
Till Schümmer, FernUniversität, Germany
Chapter 12
Didactic Design Pattern: Anonymous and Non-Anonymous Feedback ........................................... 191

Sven Wippermann, University of Education Ludwigsburg, Germany

Chapter 13
Formative E-Assessment: Case Stories, Design Patterns and Future Scenarios ............................. 199

Yishay Mor, London Knowledge Lab, UK
Harvey Mellar, London Knowledge Lab, UK
Norbert Pachler, Institute of Education, UK
Caroline Daly, Institute of Education, UK

Chapter 14
Computer-Assisted Assessment Patterns for Different Target Users: The Case of Multimedia Questionnaires .................................................................................................................................................................................. 220

Patricia Santos, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain
Davinia Hernández-Leo, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain
Toni Navarrete, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain
Josep Blat, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain

Chapter 15
VideoClipQuests as an E-Learning Pattern ...................................................................................... 237

Ulrich Kortenkamp, University of Education Karlsruhe, Germany
Axel M. Blessing, University of Education Schwäbisch Gmünd, Germany

Chapter 16
Design Patterns as Guidance for Designers of Groupware Used by Team for the Development of Innovative Products .......................................................................................................................... 247

Petros Georgiakakis, University of Piraeus, Greece
Symeon Retalis, University of Piraeus, Greece
Marlies Bitter-Rijpkema, Open Universiteit, The Netherlands
Kees Pannekeet, Open Universiteit, The Netherlands
Marjo Rutjens, Open Universiteit, The Netherlands
Peter Sloep, Open Universiteit, The Netherlands

Section 5
Reflections

Chapter 17
Patterns of Social Practice: A Psychological Perspective ................................................................... 257

Katrin Wodzicki, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany
Johannes Moskaliuk, University of Tuebingen, Germany
Ulrike Cress, Knowledge Media Research Center, Germany
Chapter 18
A First Glimpse at the Whole: Christopher Alexander’s Fifteen Fundamental Properties of Living Centers and Their Implication for Education.............................................. 272

Reinhard Bauer, Danube University Krems, Austria
Peter Baumgartner, Danube University Krems, Austria
