Table of Contents

Foreword.................................................................................................................................................. xv

Preface.................................................................................................................................................... xix

Acknowledgment.................................................................................................................................... xvi

Section 1
Theorizing About Mobile Learning

Chapter 1
An Analysis of Mobile Learning in Education, Business, and Medicine............................................. 1
  Dawn Stevens, University of Northern British Columbia, Canada
  Andrew Kitchenham, University of Northern British Columbia, Canada

Chapter 2
Producing Generic Principles and Pedagogies for Mobile Learning:
A Rigorous Five Part Model.................................................................................................................. 26
  Davina Calbraith, Anglia Ruskin University, UK
  Reg Dennick, University of Nottingham, UK

Chapter 3
But Do They Want Us in “Their” World? Evaluating the Types of Academic Information Students Want through Mobile and Social Media.......................................................... 49
  Tim Brown, University of Central Florida, USA
  Amanda Groff, University of Central Florida, USA

Chapter 4
Standardized, Flexible Design of Electronic Learning Environments to Enhance
Learning Efficiency and Effectiveness.................................................................................................. 66
  Jennifer R. Banas, Northeastern Illinois University, USA
Chapter 5
Situation-Based and Activity-Based Learning Strategies for Pervasive Learning Systems at the Workplace

Amel Bouzeghoub, Telecom SudParis, France
Serge Garlatti, Telecom-Bretagne, France
Kien Ngoc Do, Telecom SudParis, France
Cuong Pham-Nguyen, Telecom-Bretagne, France

Section 2
Practicing Mobile Learning

Chapter 6
Mobile Learning in Action: Three Case Studies with the Net Generation

Andrew Kitchenham, University of Northern British Columbia, Canada

Chapter 7
Investigating Undergraduate Student Mobile Device Use in Context

Yanjie Song, The University of Hong Kong, China

Chapter 8
Mobile Learning in Medicine

Kalyani Premkumar, University of Saskatchewan, Canada

Chapter 9
Unleashing the Potential of Mobile Learning through SMS Text for Open and Distance Learners

Zoraini Wati Abas, Open University Malaysia, Malaysia
Tina Lim, Open University Malaysia, Malaysia
Ruzita Ramli, Open University Malaysia, Malaysia

Chapter 10
Promoting Learner Generated Content and Podcasting in Postgraduate Hospitality Education

Crispin Dale, University of Wolverhampton, UK
Ghislaine Povey, University of Wolverhampton, UK

Chapter 11
Closing in on Vocabulary Acquisition: The Use of Mobile Technologies in a Foreign Language Classroom

Carly J. Born, Carleton College, USA
Andrea Lisa Nixon, Carleton College, USA
Christopher Tassava, Carleton College, USA
Section 3
Extending Mobile Learning

Chapter 12
Augmented Reality and Mobile Technologies

Grant Potter, University of Northern British Columbia, Canada

Chapter 13
Student Perceptions and Uses of Wireless Handheld Devices: Implications for Implementing Blended and Mobile Learning in an Australian University

Raj Gururajan, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Abdul Hafeez-Baig, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
P. A. Danaher, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Linda De George-Walker, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Chapter 14
Using Students’ Own Mobile Technologies to Support Clinical Competency Development in Speech Pathology

Trish Andrews, The University of Queensland, Australia
Bronwyn Davidson, The University of Queensland, Australia
Anne Hill, The University of Queensland, Australia
Danielle Sloane, The University of Queensland, Australia
Lynn Woodhouse, The University of Queensland, Australia

Chapter 15
The New Age “Information Dowser” and Mobile Learning Opportunities: The Use of Library Classification and Subject Headings in K-20 Education – Today and Tomorrow

Tom Adamich, Muskingum University, USA

Compilation of References

About the Contributors

Index