Table of Contents

Preface ................................................................................................................................................xix

Acknowledgment ................................................................................................................................xxiv

Section 1
Pedagogy and MUVEs: A Necessary Intersection

Chapter 1
Linking MUVE Education and Best Educational Practices .......................................................... 1
Michael N. DeMers, New Mexico State University, USA

Chapter 2
Mapping Current Teaching and Learning Practices to Multi-User Virtual Environments .............. 17
*Niccolo Capanni, Robert Gordon University, UK
Daniel C. Doolan, Robert Gordon University, UK*

Chapter 3
Learning Places: A Case Study of Collaborative Pedagogy Using Online Virtual Worlds ........... 31
*Jim Barrett, Umeå University, Sweden
Stefan Gelfgren, Umeå University, Sweden*

Chapter 4
Using the Interaction-Combinations Integration Model to Explore Real-Life Learning in User-Created Virtual Worlds ........................................................................................................ 47
*David M. Antonacci, University of Kansas Medical Center, USA
Nellie Modaress, University of Kansas Medical Center, USA
Edward Lee Lamoureux, Bradley University, USA
David Thomas, University of Colorado Denver, USA
Timothy Allen, Wharton Research Data Services, USA*
Chapter 5
Virtual Learning Environments: Second Life MUVEs to Leverage Student Ownership
Mitzi P. Trahan, University of Louisiana at Lafayette, USA
Nan B. Adams, Southeastern Louisiana University, USA
Susan Dupre, University of Louisiana at Lafayette, USA

Chapter 6
Exploring the Correlation between Online Teacher Dispositions and Practices in Virtual Classrooms and Student Participation and Satisfaction
Carol M. Shepherd, National University, USA
Madelon Alpert, National University, USA

Chapter 7
Signs and Guideposts: Expanding the Course Paradigm with Virtual Worlds
Keysha I. Gamor, ICF International, USA

Section 2
Roadmaps from Theory to Practice

Chapter 8
Andreas Konstantinidis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece
Thrasyvoulos Tsiatsos, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece
Stavros Demetriadis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece
Andreas Pomportsis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Chapter 9
How to Build Effective “Edutainment” Experiences in MUVEs
Alberto Bucciero, University of Salento, Italy
Nicoletta Di Blas, Polytechnics of Milan, Italy
Luca Mainetti, University of Salento, Italy
Paolo Paolini, Polytechnics of Milan, Italy
Caterina Poggi, Polytechnics of Milan, Italy

Chapter 10
Learning by Building in SL: A Reflection on an Interdisciplinary and International Experience
Hugh Denard, King’s College, UK
Enrica Salvatori, Università di Pisa, Italy
Maria Simi, Università di Pisa, Italy
Chapter 11
Trip to the Virtual Career World ................................................................. 159
Tom Wunderlich, Old Dominion University, USA
Beverly Forbes, Old Dominion University, USA
Erin Mills, Old Dominion University, USA

Chapter 12
Web Based Authoring for Virtual Worlds Using PIVOTE ............................... 170
David Burden, Daden Limited, UK
Andrew Jinman, Daden Limited, UK

Chapter 13
Immersive Education Spaces Using Open Wonderland: From Pedagogy through to Practice ........ 190
Michael Gardner, University of Essex, UK
Adela Gánem-Gutiérrez, University of Essex, UK
John Scott, University of Essex, UK
Bernard Horan, University of Essex, UK
Vic Callaghan, University of Essex, UK

Chapter 14
Teaching and Learning in Second Life: A Case Study ...................................... 206
Jiuguang Feng, Towson University, USA
Liyan Song, Towson University, USA

Section 3
MUVEs in the Classroom: Experiences, Lessons and Applications

Chapter 15
Science through Second Life: A Case Study of MUVEs in an Urban 9th Grade Classroom .......... 220
Elizabeth Wellman, Educational Consultant, Los Angeles, USA
Cathy Arreguin, San Diego State University, USA

Chapter 16
Virtual Worlds - Enjoyment, Motivation and Anonymity: Environments to Reengage Disaffected Learners with Education ................................................................. 240
Marc Thompson, Cambridge Education @ Islington, UK

Chapter 17
Why Videogames are not Teacher-Proof: The Central Role of the Teacher
when Using New Technologies in the Classroom ........................................... 267
Melissa Gresalfi, Indiana University, USA
Jacqueline Barnes, Indiana University, USA
Patrick Pettyjohn, Indiana University, USA
Chapter 18
Constructing an Experience in a Virtual Green Home

Mary Ann Mengel, Pennsylvania State University, USA

Chapter 19
Teaching Project Management with Second Life

Marc Conrad, University of Bedfordshire, UK

Chapter 20
Virtual Team Role Playing: Development of a Learning Environment

Bjoern Jaeger, Molde University College, Norway & Curtin University, Australia
Berit Helgheim, Molde University College, Norway

Chapter 21
Cross-University Collaborative Learning: Extending the Classroom via Virtual Worlds

Anne P. Massey, Indiana University, USA
Mitzi M. Montoya, Arizona State University, USA
Valerie Bartelt, Indiana University, USA

Chapter 22
Object Design in Virtual Immersive Environments

Jan Baum, Towson University, USA

Chapter 23
Instructional Design of an Advanced Interactive Discovery Environment: Exploring Team Communication and Technology Use in Virtual Collaborative Engineering Problem Solving

YiYan Wu, Syracuse University, USA
Tiffany A. Koszalka, Syracuse University, USA

Chapter 24
Towards Usable Collaborative Virtual Reality Environments for Promoting Listening Comprehension

Miguel A. Garcia-Ruiz, University of Colima, Mexico
Arthur Edwards, University of Colima, Mexico
Raul Aquino-Santos, University of Colima, Mexico
Jay Tashiro, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Canada
Bill Kapralos, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Canada

Chapter 25
Second Language Teaching in Virtual Worlds: The Case of European College Students under the ERASMUS Program

Paulo Frias, University of Porto, Portugal
Ricardo N. Fernandes, University of Porto, Portugal
Ricardo Cruz, University of Porto, Portugal
Chapter 26
Teaching Foreign Languages in a Virtual World: Lesson Plans .................................................438
   Regina Kaplan-Rakowski, Southern Illinois University, USA

Compilation of References ........................................................................................................454

About the Contributors .............................................................................................................482

Index.........................................................................................................................................497