Table of Contents

Volume I

Preface .............................................................................................................................................. xxix

Section I
Issues in New Media Literacy

Chapter I
Learning for the Future: Emerging Technologies and Social Participation................................. 1
Guy Merchant, Sheffield Hallam University, UK

Chapter II
Technology, UDL & Literacy Activities for People with Developmental Delays.............................. 14
Kevin M. Ayres, The University of Georgia, USA
John Langone, The University of Georgia, USA
Karen Douglas, The University of Georgia, USA

Chapter III
Pedagogic Potentials of Multimodal Literacy.................................................................................. 32
Maureen Walsh, ACU National, Australia

Chapter IV
Pedagogical Mashup: Gen Y, Social Media, and Learning in the Digital Age.................................. 48
Derek E. Baird, Yahoo!, Inc., USA
Mercedes Fisher, Milwaukee Applied Technical College, USA

Chapter V
New Media Literacy and the Digital Divide...................................................................................... 72
Jörg Müller, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Spain
Juana M. Sancho, University of Barcelona, Spain
Fernando Hernández, University of Barcelona, Spain
Chapter VI
Teaching and Technology: Issues, Caution and Concerns................................................................. 89
    Thomas G. Ryan, Nipissing University, Canada

Chapter VII
The Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Competence of the Young .................... 101
    Liisa Ilomäki, University of Helsinki, Finland
    Marja Kankaanranta, University of Jyväskyla, Finland

Chapter VIII
An Interactive and Digital Media Literacy Framework for the 21st Century................................. 119
    Wei-Ying Lim, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
    David Hung, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
    Horn-Mun Cheah, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Chapter IX
Promoting Mediated Collaborative Inquiry in Primary and Secondary Science Settings:
Sociotechnical Prescriptions for and Challenges to Curricular Reform........................................ 128
    Michael A. Evans, Virginia Tech, USA

Chapter X
Re-Culturing Beliefs in Technology: Enriched Classrooms.......................................................... 144
    Tamar Levin, Tel Aviv University, Israel

Chapter XI
Effective Characteristics of Learning Multimedia............................................................................. 167
    Piret Luik, University of Tartu, Estonia

Chapter XII
Empowerment Rationale for New Media Literacy......................................................................... 189
    Nancy J. Hadley, Angelo State University, USA

Chapter XIII
Using Technology in Pedagogically Responsive Ways to Support Literacy Learners .................. 203
    Lisa Kervin, University of Wollongong, Australia
    Jessica Mantei, University of Wollongong, Australia
    Jan Herrington, Murdoch University, Australia

Chapter XIV
Scaffolding Problem-Solving and Inquiry: From Instructional Design to a “Bridge Model”.......... 216
    Zvia Fund, Bar-Ilan University, Israel
Chapter XV
Reconceptualising Scaffolding for New Media Contexts.................................................. 243
Nicola Yelland, The Hong Kong Institute of Education, Hong Kong
Jennifer Masters, La Trobe University, Australia

Chapter XVI
New Media Literacy in 3-D Virtual Learning Environments ........................................... 257
Yufeng Qian, St. Thomas University, USA

Chapter XVII
The Factors Affecting Multimedia-Based Inquiry............................................................ 270
Margus Pedaste, University of Tartu, Estonia
Tago Sarapuu, University of Tartu, Estonia

Section II
ICT Tools

Chapter XVIII
Using Video Games to Improve Literacy Levels of Males............................................... 286
Stephnie Hewett, The Citadel, USA

Chapter XIX
Engagement in Science and New Media Literacy ............................................................. 300
Andrea J. Harmer, Kutztown University and Lehigh University, USA

Chapter XX
Web 2.0 Technologies and Science Education..................................................................... 310
Thiam Seng Koh, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
Kim Chwee Daniel Tan, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Chapter XXI
Measuring and Evaluating ICT Use: Developing an Instrument for Measuring Student ICT Use.............................................................................................................. 326
Romina Jamieson-Proctor, University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Glenn Finger, Griffith University, Australia

Chapter XXII
Using Talking Books to Support Early Reading Development......................................... 340
Clare Wood, Coventry University, UK
Karen Littleton, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Pav Chera, Sutherland Institute, UK
Chapter XXIII
Web 2.0 Technologies as Cognitive Tools of the New Media Age ........................................... 353
Yu-Chang Hsu, The Pennsylvania State University, USA
Yu-Hui Ching, The Pennsylvania State University, USA
Barbara Grabowski, The Pennsylvania State University, USA

Chapter XXIV
Implementing Collaborative Problem-Based Learning with Web 2.0 ........................................ 372
Steven C. Mills, The University Center of Southern Oklahoma, USA

Chapter XXV
Using Online Tools to Support Technology Integration in Education ...................................... 389
Jo Tondeur, Ghent University, Belgium
Arno Coenders, Stichting Kennisnet, Netherlands
Johan van Braak, Ghent University, Belgium
Alfons ten Brummelhuis, Stichting Kennisnet, Netherlands
Ruben Vanderlinde, Ghent University, Belgium

Chapter XXVI
Developing Digital Literacy Skills with WebQuests and Web Inquiry Projects .......................... 403
Susan Gibson, University of Alberta, Canada

Chapter XXVII
Understanding Factors that Influence the Effectiveness of Learning Objects in Secondary School Classrooms ........................................................................................................ 419
Robin Kay, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Canada

Chapter XXVIII
Tapping into Digital Literacy with Mobile Devices ....................................................................... 436
Mark van’t Hooft, Kent State University, USA

Chapter XXIX
Towards Safer Internet for Students with the Aid of a Hypermedia Filtering Tool ....................... 457
Fotis Lazarinis, University of Teesside, UK

Chapter XXX
Wireless Technologies and Multimedia Literacies ......................................................................... 471
Virginia E. Garland, The University of New Hampshire, USA
Volume II

Chapter XXXI
Good Old PowerPoint and its Unrevealed Potential ................................................................. 480
Pavel Samsonov, University of Louisiana at Lafayette, USA

Chapter XXXII
Children’s Text Messaging and Traditional Literacy ................................................................. 492
Beverly Plester, Coventry University, UK
Clare Wood, Coventry University, UK
Samantha Bowyer, Coventry University, UK

Chapter XXXIII
Concept Mapping as a Mediator of Constructivist Learning .................................................. 505
Gregory MacKinnon, Acadia University, Canada

Chapter XXXIV
Electronic Performance Support System (EPSS) Tools to Enhance Success in
School for Secondary Students with Special Needs ............................................................. 529
Katherine Mitchem, California University of Pennsylvania, USA
Gail Fitzgerald, University of Missouri, USA
Kevin Koury, California University of Pennsylvania, USA

Section III
Case Studies

Chapter XXXV
A Case Study of Contrasting Approaches to Integrating Technology into the K-5 Classroom .......... 551
Rebecca Brent, Education Designs, Inc., USA
Catherine E. Brawner, Research Triangle Educational Consultants, USA

Chapter XXXVI
Using a Technology Grant to Make Real Changes ................................................................. 575
Lyn C. Howell, Milligan College, USA

Chapter XXXVII
Emerging E-Pedagogy in Australian Primary Schools .......................................................... 588
Jennifer Way, University of Sydney, Australia

Chapter XXXVIII
Promoting New Media Literacy in a School District .............................................................. 607
Amy S. C. Leh, California State University, San Bernadino, USA
Lee Grafton, Palm Spring Unified School District, USA
Chapter XXXIX
K-20 Technology Partnerships in a Rural Community ................................................................. 620
Linda R. Lisowski, Elizabeth City State University, USA
Claudia C. Twiford, Elizabeth City State University, USA
Joseph A. Lisowski, Elizabeth City State University, USA
Quintin Q. Davis, Christa McAuliffe Middle School, USA
Rebecca F. Kirtley, JC Sawyer Elementary School, USA

Chapter XL
Computer-Mediated Discussions within a Virtual Learning Community of High School and University Students .............................................................................................................. 633
Tamara L. Jetton, Central Michigan University, USA

Chapter XLI
Skillful Internet Reader is Metacognitively Competent ............................................................... 654
Carita Kiili, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Leena Laurinen, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Miika Marttunen, University of Jyväskylä, Finland

Chapter XLII
Research Methodological Issues with Researching the Learner Voice ...................................... 669
Gráinne Conole, The Open University, UK

Section IV
Assessment

Chapter XLIII
What We Know About Assessing Online Learning in Secondary Schools .............................. 684
Art W. Bangert, Montana State University, USA
Kerry L. Rice, Boise State University, USA

Chapter XLIV
Usage of Electronic Portfolios for Assessment ........................................................................ 702
Yasemin Gulbahar, Baskent University, Turkey

Chapter XLV
A Formative Analysis of Interactive Classroom Communication Systems Used in Secondary School Classrooms ........................................................................................................ 720
Robin Kay, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Canada

Chapter XLVI
Internet-Based Peer Assessment in High School Settings ...................................................... 743
Chin-Chung Tsai, National Taiwan University of Science and Technology, Taiwan
Chapter XLVII
Course Assessment in a Teacher’s Learning Community

Giorgos Hlapanis, University of the Aegean, Greece
Angélique Dimitracopoulou, University of the Aegean, Greece

Chapter XLVIII
Automated Essay Scoring Systems

Dougal Hutchison, National Foundation for Educational Research, UK

Chapter XLIX
Metacognitive Feedback in Online Mathematical Discussion

Bracha Kramarski, Bar-Ilan University, Israel

Section V
Professional Development

Chapter L
Moodling Professional Development Training that Worked

Leaunda S. Hemphill, Western Illinois University, USA
Donna S. McCaw, Western Illinois University, USA

Chapter LI
TPACK Development in a Teacher Education Program

Nancy Wentworth, Brigham Young University, USA
Charles R. Graham, Brigham Young University, USA
Eula Ewing Monroe, Brigham Young University, USA

Chapter LII
Self-Regulated Learning: Issues and Challenges for Initial Teacher Training

Manuela Delfino, Institute for Educational Technology - Italian National Research Council, Italy
Donatella Persico, Institute for Educational Technology - Italian National Research Council, Italy