Table of Contents

Foreword.............................................................................................................................................. xv
Preface................................................................................................................................................ xvii
Acknowledgment............................................................................................................................. xxvii

Section 1
Foundations and Theory-Building

Chapter 1
An Overview of Inclusive Education in the United States................................................................. 1
Mokter Hossain, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh & University of Nevada, Reno, USA

Chapter 2
Technology to Facilitate the General Education Curriculum......................................................... 26
Cindy K. Sherman, University of Maryland College Park, USA
Susan De La Paz, University of Maryland College Park, USA

Chapter 3
Integrated Technology for Culturally Competent Communication in Urban Schools.................. 34
Maura Wechsler Linas, University of Kansas, USA
Joan E. Aitken, Park University, USA

Chapter 4
Understanding Students with Special Needs Self-Disclosure in Internet Chat Rooms:
Applying the Communication Privacy Management Theory to Internet Communications ............. 48
Narissra Maria Punyanunt-Carter, Texas Tech University, USA
Stacy L. Carter, Texas Tech University, USA

Chapter 5
Using Spatial Constructivist Thinking Theory to Enhance Classroom Instruction for Students with Special Needs ........................................................................................................... 66
Prince Hycy Bull, North Carolina Central University, USA
Section 2
Assistive Technology

Chapter 6
Wheelchairs as Assistive Technology: What a Special Educator Should Know ........................................ 83
  Judy L. Carroll, University of Nebraska Medical Center, USA

Chapter 7
Trial and Error with Assistive, Accessible, Augmentative Technology ...................................................... 94
  Arthur W. Blaser, Chapman University, USA

Chapter 8
Voice/Speech Recognition Software: A Discussion of the Promise for Success and Practical Suggestions for Implementation ........................................................................................................ 98
  Andrew Kitchenham, University of Northern British Columbia, Canada
  Doug Bowes, SET-BC, Canada

Chapter 9
A Guide to Assistive Technology for Teachers in Special Education ............................................................. 105
  Harris Wang, Athabasca University, Canada

Chapter 10
Assistive Technology: A Tool for Inclusion ..................................................................................................... 119
  Mary Spillane, Bellevue Public Schools, USA

Section 3
Perspectives

Chapter 11
The Student with Complex Education Needs: Assistive and Augmentative Information and Communication Technology in a Ten-Week Music Program ......................................................... 131
  Helen J. Farrell, The University of Melbourne, Australia

Chapter 12
Communication Technology Integration in the Content Areas for Students with High-Incidence Disabilities: A Case Study of One School System .............................................................. 168
  Anna S. Evmenova, George Mason University, USA
  Michael M. Behrmann, George Mason University, USA

Chapter 13
Signage as a Classroom Prompt: An Evidence-Based Practice? .................................................................. 196
  Ian J. Loverro, Central Washington University, USA
  David J. Majsterek, Central Washington University, USA
  David N. Shorr, Central Washington University, USA
Chapter 14
Using Social Bookmarking to Make Online Resources More Accessible

Stein Brunvand, University of Michigan-Dearborn, USA

Chapter 15
Reflections on Teaching Students with Special Needs in an Online Master’s Program

Lora Cohn, Park University, USA

Chapter 16
Using Tactile Prompts to Increase Social-Communicative Skills with Children with Autism

Judah B. Axe, Simmons College, USA

Chapter 17
Personal Reflections on the Educational Potential and Future of Closed Captioning on the Web

Sean Zdenek, Texas Tech University, USA

Chapter 18
Parental Communication About the Needs of their Children: As Expressed in an Online Support Group

Joan E. Aitken, Park University, USA

Section 4
Leading Change

Chapter 19
Are you SMARTer than a SMART Board™? How to Effectively Use This Technology Tool to Communicate in a Classroom with a Diverse Group of Learners

Mandi Sonnenberg, Rockhurst University, USA

Chapter 20
Reading by Listening: Access to Books in Audio Format for College Students with Print Disabilities

Marni Gail Jones, Dickinson College, USA
Christopher L. Schwilk, Shippensburg University, USA
David F. Bateman, Shippensburg University, USA

Chapter 21
 Integrating Accessible Multiplication Games into Inclusive Classrooms

Cindy L. Anderson, Roosevelt University, USA

Chapter 22
Do You See What I’m Saying? Ultrasound Technology as a Tool for Pronunciation Instruction

Bryan Meadows, University of Texas Pan-American, USA
Chapter 23
What Do You Do With a Digital Pen? ................................................................. 303
   Judith K. Carlson, Rockhurst University, USA

Chapter 24
Communication Technologies for Instructional Use: Linear and Nonlinear Tools
Contributing to Student Learning ........................................................................ 309
   Seok Kang, University of Texas at San Antonio, USA

Chapter 25
Teaching What We Don’t Know: Failing to Adequately Prepare Teachers to Use
Technology for the Benefit of Students with Special Needs ................................ 320
   Joy E. Harris, University of Tampa, USA

Chapter 26
Ten Hot Assistive Tech Websites That You Won’t Want to Miss ....................... 328
   Alex Thompson, Retired Consultant, USA

List of Abbreviations ............................................................................................ 332

Glossary .................................................................................................................. 336

Compilation of References .................................................................................. 346

About the Contributors ......................................................................................... 384

Index ..................................................................................................................... 394