Table of Contents

Foreword............................................................................................................................................xiv

Preface................................................................................................................................................xvi

Acknowledgment..............................................................................................................................xxiii

Section 1

Chapter 1
Computational Semantics Requires Computation .............................................................. 1
Yorick Wilks, Florida Institute of Human and Machine Cognition, USA

Chapter 2
Natural Language Processing Tools...................................................................................... 9
Justin F. Brunelle, Old Dominion University, USA
Chutima Boonthum-Denecke, Hampton University, USA

Chapter 3
Information Extraction from Text and Beyond................................................................. 24
Marie-Francine Moens, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium

Chapter 4
Corpora and Concordancers................................................................................................. 40
Charles Hall, The University of Memphis, USA

Chapter 5
Lexical Challenges in the Intersection of Applied Linguistics and ANLP ...................... 50
Scott Jarvis, Ohio University, USA

Chapter 6
The User-Language Paraphrase Corpus............................................................................. 73
Philip M. McCarthy, University of Memphis, USA
Danielle S. McNamara, University of Memphis, USA
Chapter 7
Amazon Mechanical Turk: A Web-Based Tool for Facilitating Experimental Research in ANLP
Amber Chauncey Strain, The University of Memphis, Institute for Intelligent Systems, USA
Lucille M. Booker, The University of Memphis, Institute for Intelligent Systems, USA

Chapter 8
Some Issues on Capturing the Meaning of Negated Statements
Eduardo Blanco, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA
Dan Moldovan, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA

Chapter 9
Cognitive Load Aspects of Text Processing
Slava Kalyuga, University of New South Wales, Australia

Chapter 10
Understanding and Reasoning with Text
M. Anne Britt, Northern Illinois University, USA
Katja Wiemer, Northern Illinois University, USA
Keith K. Millis, Northern Illinois University, USA
Joseph P. Magliano, Northern Illinois University, USA
Patty Wallace, Northern Illinois University, USA
Peter Hastings, DePaul University, USA

Section 2

Chapter 11
Guru: Designing a Conversational Expert Intelligent Tutoring System
Andrew M. Olney, University of Memphis, USA
Natalie K. Person, Rhodes College, USA
Arthur C. Graesser, University of Memphis, USA

Chapter 12
P-MATCH: Identifying Part Name in Noisy Text Data
Anne Kao, Boeing Research and Technology, USA
Stephen R. Poteet, Boeing Research and Technology, USA
David H. Jones, Boeing Research and Technology, USA
David Augustine, Boeing Research and Technology, USA

Chapter 13
Disambiguation and Filtering Methods in Using Web Knowledge for Coreference Resolution
Olga Uryupina, University of Trento, Italy
Massimo Poesio, University of Trento, Italy & University of Essex, UK
Claudio Giuliano, University of Trento, Italy & Fondazione Bruno Kessler, Italy
Kateryna Tymoshenko, University of Trento, Italy & Fondazione Bruno Kessler, Italy
Chapter 14
Newness and Givenness of Information: Automated Identification in Written Discourse .......................... 202
Philip M. McCarthy, University of Memphis, USA
David Dufty, University of Memphis, USA
Christian F. Hempelmann, RiverGlass Inc., USA & Purdue University, USA
Zhiqiang Cai, University of Memphis, USA
Danielle McNamara, University of Memphis, USA
Arthur C. Graesser, University of Memphis, USA

Chapter 15
Improving Spoken Dialogue Understanding Using Phonetic Mixture Models ........................................... 225
William Yang Wang, Carnegie Mellon University, USA
Ron Artstein, Institute for Creative Technologies, University of Southern California, USA
Anton Leuski, Institute for Creative Technologies, University of Southern California, USA
David Traum, Institute for Creative Technologies, University of Southern California, USA

Chapter 16
Mining and Visualizing the Narration Tree of Hadiths (Prophetic Traditions) ........................................... 239
Aqil Azmi, King Saud University, Saudi Arabia
Nawaf AlBadia, General Organization for Social Insurance, Saudi Arabia

Chapter 17
Combinatory Categorial Grammar for Computer-Assisted Language Learning ........................................ 258
Simon Delamarre, Telecom Bretagne, France
Maryvonne Abraham, Telecom Bretagne, France & Université Européenne de Bretagne, France
& Laboratoire LaLICC, Paris Sorbonne, France

Chapter 18
Fairy Tales and ESL Texts: An Analysis of Linguistic Features Using the Gramulator ................................. 273
Rachel M. Rufenacht, University of Memphis, USA
Philip M. McCarthy, University of Memphis, USA
Travis A. Lamkin, University of Memphis, USA

Chapter 19
Text-Based Affect Detection in Intelligent Tutors ......................................................................................... 284
Sidney D’Mello, University of Memphis, USA
Arthur Graesser, University of Memphis, USA

Chapter 20
Multiple Influences on the Use of English Spatial Prepositions: The Case of “in” and “on” .................. 305
Michele I. Feist, University of Louisiana at Lafayette, USA
Dedre Gentner, Northwestern University, USA