Acknowledgment

We are totally indebted and owe much gratitude to those who helped make this book a reality, especially to the authors and anonymous reviewers of the different chapters in the book. It is a general truth that this book would not be a reality without their huge effort and very well crafted work. They poured in a great deal of their research skills and technical excellence, together with a huge effort, to make a comprehensive pack of their available open source systems. The result is really worth it and we are grateful for it.

Obviously, these acknowledgments extend to many other friends and the editorial team (especially Myla Harty), who have listened patiently to our rumbles about this book during never-ending conversations with them. The only three people we want to thank by name are our partners, Marta, Juli, and Candelas, who really made it possible for us to conceive and actually edit this book.

Luis M. Vaquero
HP Labs, UK

Juan Cáceres
Telefonica R&D Labs, Spain

Juanjo Hierro
Telefonica, Spain