Acknowledgment

I would like to thank my wife, Maria, without her support over the years this book would never have been completed. (Maria! Maria!! Maria!!!)

I would also like to acknowledge all the editing assistants, supervisors and managers of IGI Global, a long chain of names and Mike Killian as editorial assistant is first here for me to express my thanks.

This work would not have been possible without access to the research material and the case studies that have been now for more than twelve years carried out in the Research Division of Unisoft, ALTEC and ALTEC Software - my particular thanks go to all the people that had been with us all these years and especially the Holy Leadership Triad consisting of Nikitas Katsaras, Kostas Karlaftis and last but not least, Filippos Andreou. All three of them for many years now needed to design, optimise and operate special interfaces for communicating with me and the people of my Division. I am deeply thankful to them and feel lifelong obliged to their kindness.

Finally, I would like to thank Stamatia-Ann Katriou and Ioannis Ignatiadis and the people of the European IST Panda project, lead by my good friend Kostas Bougiouklis.

I would like to finally thank colleagues and research partners for their support during the long process of this project. Their advice, comfort and encouragement helped me to bring to completion this book.
