Acknowledgment

We are indebted to many people among them chapter contributors, referees, and members of the advisory board, IGI Global staff, and other individuals with whom we had contact who helped in many ways to put this edited book together. Particularly, we are deeply appreciative of the assistance of a number of people at IGI Global. Without their dedicated guidance and feedback, this book would not have been completed successfully. First and foremost, Myla Harty, Assistant Development Editor at IGI Global, helped us stay on track and gave much positive feedback during the development stage. She was instrumental in finding answers for our day-to-day problems related to the book project.

We extend our appreciation to the editorial advisory board team who gave their valuable time, effort, and counsel to improve the final product, and gave meaningful input.

The reviewers are thanked for their hard work, dedication, and for their meticulous reviews and comments to the authors. Without their constructive suggestions, the overall quality of the book would not have reached its potential for contribution in this field.

Ephrem would like to thank his wife Zaid and their children, Simon and Estelle, who were patient with his late nights at the computer, and he wants to thank them for their love and faithful support while preparing this book. Edem would like to dedicate this book to his wife, Momo, and their daughter, Shania, and sons, Kyle and Evan. Without their love, support, patience, and encouragement, he could not have edited this book.

Finally, to all that we have missed to list, we would like to express our heartfelt gratitude for your efforts and assistance.
