Acknowledgment

A lot of individuals, who may be too numerous to mention, sacrificed their valuable time to making this book project what it is.

The success of the production of this book is largely owed to the diligent and enthusiastic authors who dedicated long hours in the individual chapter writing process. We would like to thank the individual authors who attributed a lot of dedication and time to producing comprehensive chapters commensurate to the calibre of this publication. The authors’ patience and dedication to revising their chapters with reference to peer review results and other editors’ requirements cannot go without commendation. We believe this work will go a long way in advancing the body of knowledge of e-Government research and practice. We would also like to thank the peer reviewers who participated in the double-blinded peer review process of the chapters. Your dedication and expert-critical eye has made this work attain its present rigor and quality.

We are also highly indebted to the entire IGI-Global team for the technical and managerial assistance. Particularly, a special ‘thank you’ is extended to Julia Mosemann – Director of Book Publications, (Ms) Jan Travers – Director of Intellectual Property and Contracts, Erika Carter – Acquisitions Editor, and Myla Harty – Editorial Assistant at the Development Division.

A special thank you is being extended to Prof. Rensleigh and Prof. Du Plessis (University of Johannesburg, Department of Information and Knowledge Management) for having helped in the conceptualization of this idea and for encouraging us to go ahead with this book.

Last but not least, we would also like to commend professionals who had considered publishing their research works in this publication but due to a huge volume of prospective contributors, their work could not find room in this book.

A special thank you is also being directed towards our families for their understanding of our working long hours and correspondingly our absence from our homes in order to accomplish this milestone.
