Table of Contents

Preface.................................................................................................................................................. xv

Acknowledgment........................................................................................................................................ xviii

Section 1
E-Politics at Work

Chapter 1
Radio-Frequency Identification and Human Tagging: Newer Coercions.............................................. 1
_Nada K. Kakabadse, The University of Northampton, UK_
_Alexander Kouzmin, Southern Cross University and University of South Australia, Australia_
_Andrew P. Kakabadse, Cranfield University, UK_

Chapter 2
ERP Implementation Across Cultures: A Political Perspective ............................................................... 19
_Celia Romm Livermore, Wayne State University, USA_
_Pierluigi Rippa, University of Napoli Federico II, Italy_

Section 2
E-Politics in Cyberspace

Chapter 3
The Politics of Image: The Image Economy on Facebook................................................................. 34
_Yasmin Ibrahim, Queen Mary University of London, UK_

Chapter 4
When the Virtual and the Real Clash: Power and Politics in a Social Networking Community .......... 47
_Celia Romm Livermore, Wayne State University, USA_

Chapter 5
Careful What You Say: Media Control in Putin’s Russia – Implications for Online Content.......... 61
_Katherine Ognyanova, University of Southern California, USA_
Section 3
E-Politics among the Youth

Chapter 6
Enabling User Participation in Civic Engagement Web Sites ................................................................. 78
Dominic Thomas, Emory University, USA

Chapter 7
Social Networking Sites and Complex Technology Assessment................................................................. 92
Christian Fuchs, University of Salzburg, Austria

Chapter 8
Building and Connecting to Online Communities for Action: Young People, ICT and Everyday Politics ........................................................................................................................................... 114
Philippa Collin, Murdoch University, Australia

Chapter 9
Acceptance, Use, and Influence of Political Technologies among Youth Voters in the 2008 US Presidential Election ........................................................................................................ 133
Lara Khansa, Virginia Tech, USA
Tabitha James, Virginia Tech, USA
Deborah F. Cook, Virginia Tech, USA

Section 4
E-Politics for Party Politics

Chapter 10
Internetized Television Debates: Enhancing Citizens’ Participation ....................................................... 157
Anastasia Deligiaouri, Higher Technological Educational Institution (ATEI) of Western Macedonia, Greece
Panagiotis Symeonidis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Chapter 11
Election Campaigns on the Internet: How are Voters Affected? ............................................................... 178
Jens Hoff, University of Copenhagen, Denmark

Chapter 12
Comparing the Influence of Social Networks Online and Offline on Decision Making: The U.S. Senate Case ......................................................................................................................... 198
Jang Hyun Kim, University of Hawaii at Manoa, USA
George Barnett, University of California at Davis, USA
Kyunghee “Hazel” Kwon, Arizona State University, USA
Chapter 13
Analyzing the Capacity of Unsolicited Political Email ......................................................... 220
  Kristin Johnson, University of Rhode Island, USA
  Brian S. Krueger, University of Rhode Island, USA

Chapter 14
E-Politics in the Internet Era: Key Implications and Opportunities ........................................ 245
  Mahesh S. Raisinghani, Texas Woman’s University, USA
  Randy Weiss, Verizon Wireless, USA

Section 5
  E-Politics of Grass-Roots Social Movements

Chapter 15
Exploring Internet and Politics: E-Mailing Lists as Political Spaces for Social Movements ........ 259
  Andrea Calderaro, European University Institute, Italy

Chapter 16
From the Internet to the Corridors: How Digital Rights Advocates Influence European Union Intellectual Property Legislations .......................................................... 277
  Yana Breindl, Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium

Chapter 17
Between Individuality and Collectiveness: Email Lists and Face-to-Face Contact in the Global Justice Movement ................................................................. 295
  Anastasia Kavada, University of Westminster, UK

Chapter 18
Using the Web Politically: Social Movement Activists and Organizations Online .................. 312
  Lorenzo Mosca, University of Roma Tre, Italy

Section 6
  E-Politics as Facilitator of Democracy in the Muslim World

Chapter 19
Islam, Revolution and Radicalism: The Co-constitution of Reality and Virtuality .................. 336
  M. A. Muqtedar Khan, University of Delaware, USA
  Reid T. Smith, University of Delaware, USA
  Onur Tanay, University of Delaware, USA
Chapter 20
The Unintended Consequence: The Symbiotic Relationship between ICT and a National Transition.................................................................................................................... 350

Hamid Nemati, The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, USA
Amna Latif, Tarbiyah Islamic School of Delaware, USA

Chapter 21
“Army Uniform Is Part Of My Skin”: A Critical Discourse Analysis of ICT Growth and Politics in Pakistan.................................................................................................................... 364

M. Naveed Baqir, University of Delaware, USA

Compilation of References ............................................................................................................... 372

About the Contributors ...................................................................................................................... 414

Index................................................................................................................................................ 421