Instructional Technologies: Cognitive Aspects of Online Programs

Table of Contents

Preface .......................................................................................................................... v
  Paul Darbyshire, Victoria University, Australia

Chapter I
Developing Distance Learning Programs: Applied Learnings and Thoughts
................................................................................................................................. 1
  Susan A. Baim, Miami University Middletown, USA

Chapter II
Online Multimedia Educational Application for Teaching Multimedia Contents: An Experiment with Students in Higher Education .................................................................................. 31
  Alcina Prata, Higher School of Management Sciences (ESCE), Portugal
  Pedro Faria Lopes, Higher Institute of Labour and Business Studies (ISCTE), Portugal

Chapter III
Building Quality from Satisfaction in Online Learning Using Total Quality Management: A Case Study ................................................................. 73
  Paul Darbyshire, Victoria University, Australia
Chapter IV
The Determinants of Web-based Instructional Systems’ Outcome and Satisfaction: An Empirical Investigation
Sean B. Eom, Southeast Missouri State University, USA
Michael A. Ketcherside, J. Baer & Associates, USA
Hu-Hyuk Lee, Southeast Missouri State University, USA
Michael L. Rodgers, Southeast Missouri State University, USA
David Starrett, Southeast Missouri State University, USA

Chapter V
Semi-Adaptive Testing Strategies in a Web-based Generic Tutoring System
Matthias R. Brust, University of Trier, Germany

Chapter VI
UML-based Modeling of Educational Components for Cooperative Problem-based Learning Situation Design
Pierre Laforcade, LIUPPA, France
Franck Barbier, LIUPPA, France

Chapter VII
Assessing the Effectiveness of E-Learning
Vincent F. Kwisnek, E-Learning Developer, Pennsylvania, USA

Chapter VIII
E-Learners at Risk: The Effect of the Online Learning Environment upon Mid-level Achievers
Kathryn A. Marold, Metropolitan State College of Denver, USA
Wayne Haga, Metropolitan State College of Denver, USA

Chapter IX
Privacy Policies and Their Negotiation in Distance Education
George Yee, National Research Council Canada, Canada
Larry Korba, National Research Council Canada, Canada

About the Authors

Index