Acknowledgment

The editors wish to acknowledge the individuals and organizations whose help and participation made the completion of this book possible.

Special thanks to the Editorial Advisory Board (EAB) members who spent many hours thoughtfully reviewing and providing feedback on numerous proposals and chapters. The EAB members were heavily consulted and insured the integrity and quality of this publication. The members include Kristine Brancolini, David Dahl, Courtney Greene, Sigrid Kelsey, Alesia McManus, Shane Nackerud, Billie Peterson-Lugo, Ken Varnum, and Scott Walter.

The editors are especially appreciative of the work of the graduate student Manuscript Assistants, Marissa Ellerman and Rachael Cohen who assisted greatly with preparation of the manuscript and final editing. Marissa and Rachael re-energized the editors in the last months of work and brought new perspective and enthusiasm to the topic. The quality of their work and their commitment to the project are worthy of special recognition.

The Indiana University Librarians Association (InULA) is thanked for their support in the form of a generous grant that funded the Manuscript Assistants salary. The editors are grateful for the support of their colleagues.

The editors wish to recognize the generous support of Indiana University Bloomington Libraries Administration and the Librarian Support Grant selection committee for the grant funding that also helped to fund the Manuscript Assistants.

The editors express their deepest gratitude for the understanding and support of Courtney Greene and Carolyn Walters, the editors’ supervisors whose patience and flexibility enabled the completion of this book.

Finally, the editors share their sincerest gratitude for the kindness, generosity, and understanding of their families Johnny Popp, Garett Montanez, and James Dallis Montanez.

Diane Dallis
Indiana University, USA

Mary Pagliero Popp
Indiana University, USA