Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xvii

Acknowledgment .................................................................................................................................. xxiv

Section 1

Laying the Groundwork: Creating Plans for Budgeting and Buying

Chapter 1
Five Steps to Efficient, Economical Collection Development .............................................................. 1
Ann Hallyburton, Western Carolina University, USA

Chapter 2
Behind the Scenes: Approval Profiles From a Vendor’s Perspective...................................................... 16
Alison Griffin, Ingram Coutts, Canada
Sarah Forzetting, Ingram Coutts, USA

Section 2

Bird’s Eye View: How Discipline Shapes Practice

Chapter 3
Out of the Ordinary: Collection Development in Support of Business Curriculum and Research ...... 33
Leslie Farison, Appalachian State University, USA
Georgie L. Donovan, Appalachian State University, USA

Chapter 4
Evolution and Change in American Legal Education: Implications for Academic Law Collections... 53
Mark P. Bernstein, Drexel University, USA
John Cannan, Drexel University, USA

Chapter 5
Understanding the Nature of Design and Its Implications for Design Collection Development .......... 71
Amauri R. Serrano, Appalachian State University, USA
Chapter 6
Shaping the Librarian’s Library: Collecting to Support LIS Education and Practice
Susan E. Searing, University of Illinois, USA

Chapter 7
Collection Development for Theological Education
Geoffrey Little, Concordia University, Canada

Chapter 8
Information Sources and Collection Planning for Engineering
William Baer, Georgia Institute of Technology, USA
Crystal Renfro, Georgia Institute of Technology, USA

Chapter 9
A Question of Degrees: Collecting in Support of the Allied Health Professions
Kathryn L. Zybeck, Methodist University, USA

Chapter 10
New Professions, New Opportunities: Collection Development in Support of Interdisciplinary Programs
Cynthia Lenox, John Carroll University, USA

Section 3
Digging Deeper: Collecting for the Professional Subfields

Chapter 11
Graphic Design Collections: Development and Assessment within an Emerging Interdisciplinary Field
Patricia Pettijohn, University of South Florida – St. Petersburg, USA
Allison Etzel, University of South Florida – St. Petersburg, USA
Anne Killenberg, University of South Florida – St. Petersburg, USA

Chapter 12
Balancing the Creative and Professional: Collecting For Interior and Fashion Design
Gwen Vredevoogd, Marymount University, USA

Chapter 13
Developing a Juvenile Literature Collection in an Academic Library
Todd Shipman, Auburn University, USA
Greg Schmidt, Auburn University, USA
Susan Bannon, Auburn University, USA
Chapter 14
Asking the Right Questions, Finding the Right Answers: Evaluating, Selecting, and Maintaining Academic Nursing Collections ................................................................. 229
Heidi M. Schroeder, Michigan State University Libraries, USA

Chapter 15
Veterinary Medicine: All Collections Great and Small........................................... 248
Esther Carrigan, Texas A&M University, USA
Ana Ugaz, Texas A&M University, USA
Heather K. Moberly, Oklahoma State University, USA
Jessica Page, The Ohio State University, USA
Kristine M. Alpi, North Carolina State University, USA
Carol E. Vreeland, North Carolina State University, USA

Chapter 16
Developing a Library Collection in Bioinformatics: Support for an Evolving Profession........... 269
Victoria Martin, George Mason University, USA

Section 4
In the Trenches: Case Studies, Projects, and Surveys

Chapter 17
Collection Development for the College of Engineering at Louisiana State University Libraries: Liaison Responsibilities and Duties ................................................................. 291
Alice L. Daugherty, Louisiana State University, USA
Will E. Hires, Louisiana State University, USA
Stephanie G. Braunstein, Louisiana State University, USA

Chapter 18
Issues in Collection Development Planning: Supporting the College of Health Sciences and Human Services and the School of Nursing at Murray State University ........................................... 306
Julie Robinson, Murray State University, USA

Chapter 19
Building a Transsystemic Law Library Collection ............................................... 327
Maryvon Côté, McGill University, Canada

Chapter 20
Something for Everyone: The Anatomy Update Project at UNC Chapel Hill Health Sciences Library ................................................................. 341
Susan Swogger, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, USA
Chapter 21
Collaborating with Faculty to Weed an Entire Science and Engineering Book Collection .......................... 361
Scott Juskiewicz, Montana Tech of the University of Montana, USA
Betsy Harper Garlish, Montana Tech of the University of Montana, USA

Chapter 22
Collection Development in Nursing: Weeding for Collection Strength ................................................. 375
Michelle Price, St. John Fisher College, USA

Chapter 23
Collection Development in Architecture: A View from the Field............................................................. 390
Barbara Opar, Syracuse University, USA

Chapter 24
Academic Curriculum Collections in North America: A Comparative Survey ........................................ 423
Sara Holder, McGill University, Canada

Compilation of References .......................................................................................................................... 442

About the Contributors ............................................................................................................................... 467

Index .......................................................................................................................................................... 476