Table of Contents

Preface ........................................................................................................................................... xviii

Acknowledgment ........................................................................................................................... xxxi

Chapter 1
Video Game Genre Affordances for Physics Education .............................................................. 1
Kostas Anagnostou, Ionian University, Greece
Anastasia Pappa, Alibreto Science Communication and Education, Greece

Chapter 2
Encouraging Engagement in Game-Based Learning ..................................................................... 17
Nicola Whitton, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK

Chapter 3
Leveraging Mobile Games for Place-Based Language Learning .................................................. 27
Christopher L. Holden, University of New Mexico, USA
Julie M. Sykes, University of New Mexico, USA

Chapter 4
DataPlay: Experiments in the Ludic Age ...................................................................................... 46
Colleen Macklin, Parsons the New School for Design, USA

Chapter 5
Affordances and Constraints of Scaffolded Learning in a Virtual World for Young Children ........ 61
Rebecca W. Black, University of California, Irvine, USA
Stephanie M. Reich, University of California, Irvine, USA

Chapter 6
Social Interactions in Online Gaming ............................................................................................. 74
Mark D. Griffiths, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Zaheer Hussain, University of Derby, UK
Sabine M. Grüsser, Charité–University Medicine Berlin, Germany
Ralf Thalemann, Charité–University Medicine Berlin, Germany
Helena Cole, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Mark N.O. Davies, University of East London, UK
Darren Chappell, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Chapter 7
The Mobile Learning Network: Getting Serious about Games Technologies for Learning.................. 91
Rebecca Petley, LSN, UK
Guy Parker, LSN, UK
Jill Attewell, LSN, UK

Chapter 8
A Psycho-Pedagogical Framework for Multi-Adaptive Educational Games ................................. 103
Michael D. Kickmeier-Rust, University of Graz, Austria
Elke Mattheiss, University of Graz, Austria
Christina M. Steiner, University of Graz, Austria
Dietrich Albert, University of Graz, Austria

Chapter 9
Content Design Patterns for Game-Based Learning........................................................................ 118
Dennis Maciuszek, University of Rostock, Germany
Sebastian Ladhoff, University of Rostock, Germany
Alke Martens, University of Education Schwäbisch Gmünd, Germany

Chapter 10
Designing Serious Games for People with Disabilities: Game, Set and Match to the Wii™.............. 136
Lindsay Evett, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Allan Ridley, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Liz Keating, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Patrick Merritt, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Nick Shopland, Nottingham Trent University, UK
David Brown, Nottingham Trent University, UK

Chapter 11
Motivational Aspects of Gaming for Students with Intellectual Disabilities ................................. 144
Maria Saridaki, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece
Constantinos Mourlas, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece

Chapter 12
Honing Emotional Intelligence with Game-Based Crucible Experiences .................................... 155
Elaine M. Raybourn, Sandia National Laboratories, USA

Chapter 13
Possibility Spaces: Using The Sims 2 as a Sandbox to Explore Possible Selves with At-Risk Teenage Males ............................................................................................................. 169
Elizabeth King, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Chapter 14
Forming The Guild: Star Power and Rethinking Projective Identity in Affinity Spaces................. 188

Elizabeth Ellcessor, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Sean C. Duncan, Miami University, USA

Chapter 15
Fear of (Serious) Digital Games and Game-Based Learning? Causes, Consequences and a Possible Countermeasure .................................................................................................................. 203

Wolfgang Bösche, Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany
Florian Kattner, Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany

Chapter 16
Background Music in Educational Games: Motivational Appeal and Cognitive Impact................. 219

Stephanie B. Linek, Leibniz Centre of Economics, Germany
Birgit Marte, University of Graz, Austria
Dietrich Albert, University of Graz, Austria

Chapter 17
Formulating a Serious-Games Design Project for Adult Offenders with the Probation Service ...... 231

Matthew Ian Bates, Nottingham Trent University, UK
David Brown, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Wayne Cranton, Nottingham Trent University, UK
James Lewis, Nottingham Trent University, UK

Chapter 18
The Use of Motion Tracking Technologies in Serious Games to Enhance Rehabilitation in Stroke Patients ........................................................... 241

Andrew M. Burton, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Hao Liu, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Steven Battersby, Nottingham Trent University, UK
David Brown, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Nasser Sherkat, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Penny Standen, University of Nottingham, UK
Marion Walker, University of Nottingham, UK

Chapter 19
Digital Games: Changing Education, One Raid at a Time. .......................................................... 253

Paul Pivec, CranberryBlue R & D, New Zealand
Maja Pivec, FH JOANNEUM University of Applied Sciences, Austria

Chapter 20
The Magic Bullet: A Tool for Assessing and Evaluating Learning Potential in Games ................. 273

Katrin Becker, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Chapter 21
Collaborative Strategic Board Games as a Site for Distributed Computational Thinking .......... 285
Matthew Berland, University of Texas at San Antonio, USA
Victor R. Lee, Utah State University, USA

Chapter 22
Assessment through Achievement Systems: A Framework for Educational Game Design .......... 302
Monica Evans, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA
Erin Jennings, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA
Michael Andreen, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA

Chapter 23
Understanding Computational Thinking before Programming: Developing Guidelines for the Design of Games to Learn Introductory Programming through Game-Play .................................................. 316
Cagin Kazimoglu, University of Greenwich, UK
Mary Kiernan, University of Greenwich, UK
Liz Bacon, University of Greenwich, UK
Lachlan MacKinnon, University of Greenwich, UK

Chapter 24
Historical Perspectives on Games and Education from the Learning Sciences ......................... 339
Brett E. Shelton, Utah State University, USA
Tom Satwicz, Blink Interactive, USA
Tom Caswell, Utah State University, USA

Compilation of References ............................................................................................................ 365

About the Contributors .................................................................................................................. 405

Index ............................................................................................................................................ 418