Internet-Based Organizational Memory and Knowledge Management

Table of Contents

Preface ......................................................................................................................................................... i

Chapter One
On Knowledge Management in the Internet Age ................................................................. 1
  David G. Schwartz, Bar Ilan University, Israel
  Monica Divitini & Terje Brasethvik, Norwegian University of Science & Technology

PART I: UTILIZING KNOWLEDGE .................................................................................. 24

Chapter Two
Internet Enabled Corporate Knowledge Sharing and Utilization ......................... 25
  Bidjan Tschaitschian, DFKI, Germany
  Andreas Abecker, DFKI, Germany
  Joachim Hackstein, DFKI, Germany
  Jamel Zakaoui, DFKI, Germany

Chapter Three
Essential Factors in Knowledge Management with COTS Products ............. 42
  Seng-cho T. Chou, National Taiwan University
  Edward T. Chow, Jet Propulsion Laboratory, USA

Chapter Four
The Challenge for Customer Service: Managing Heterogenous Knowledge ...... 57
  Guy Saward, University of Hertfordshire, UK

PART II: ACQUIRING KNOWLEDGE AND BUILDING ORGANIZATIONAL MEMORIES ........................................................................................................ 82

Chapter Five
Semi-Structured Data Extraction from Heterogenous Sources .................... 83
  Xiaoying Gao, University of Melbourne, Australia
  Leon Sterling, University of Melbourne, Australia   