Table of Contents

Preface..................................................................................................................................................xxi

Pedagogical Analysis of the Contributions Present in the Volume ............................................. xxv
   Educational Technologies Research Group, University of Bologna, Italy

An Overview of the Chapters in the Publication ........................................................................ xxvi
   Elena Pacetti, University of Bologna, Italy

Constructivism and Active Didactics ...........................................................................................xxxvii
   Luigi Guerra, University of Bologna, Italy

Teaching Innovation and ICT: Qualifying the Educational Experience ........................................xlix
   Elena Pacetti, University of Bologna, Italy

Inclusion and Didactic Innovation ..................................................................................................lix
   Manuela Fabbri, University of Bologna, Italy

The Relationship between School and the Local Community: A View to Education, to Citizenship, and to Active Citizenship .................................................................................lxxii
   Federica Zanetti, University of Bologna, Italy

Acknowledgement..........................................................................................................................lxxxii

Volume I

Section 1
Classroom 2.0 and Virtual Communities in the Web 2.0

Chapter 1
The Children’s Virtual Museum of Small Animals: From the Schoolyard to the Internet .......... 1
   Paolo Beneventi, Freelance, Italy
Chapter 2
Wikipedia: Educational and Learning Laboratory ................................................................. 15
   Elisa Spadavecchia, Provincial School Authority, Italy

Chapter 3
Technology of Education and Music Teaching: New Responses to Old Issues .................... 27
   Roberto Agostini, University of Bologna, Italy

Chapter 4
Educational Contents and Creativity in Virtual Environments: ST.ART Project ....................... 38
   Ilaria Mascitti, Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Italy,
   Daniela Di Marco, Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Italy,
   Monica Fasciani, Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Italy

Chapter 5
ICT in the Classroom: New Learning Environment ................................................................ 48
   Floriana Falcinelli, Università degli Studi di Perugia, Italy
   Chiara Laici, Università degli Studi di Perugia, Italy

Chapter 6
Learning in a “Classi 2.0” Classroom: First Results from an Empirical Research in the Italian Context ......................................................................................................................... 57
   Gabriella Taddeo, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Simona Tirocchi, Università di Torino, Italy

Chapter 7
PotenziaMente: A Collection of Online Games for Learning Mathematics and Enhance Thought Processes .......................................................................................................................... 68
   Roberto Trinchero, University of Turin, Italy

Chapter 8
Acer: European Schoolnet Pilot Netbook Project ..................................................................... 78
   Séraphine Francoise Altamura, Istituto Superiore Statale Vittorio Gassman, Italy
   Alessandra Cannelli, Istituto Comprensivo Largo Castelseprio, Italy
   Roberta Maria Delle Monache, Istituto Magistrale “S.Rosa da Viterbo”, Italy

Chapter 9
A “Bottega Didattica” for an Inclusive School .......................................................................... 91
   Lanfranco Genito, Bottega della Comunicazione e della Didattica, Italy

Chapter 10
Moodle: A Platform for a School ............................................................................................. 107
   Elena Marcato, University of Bologna, Italy
   Elisabetta Scala, University of Bologna, Italy
Chapter 11
Strategic Trials of Educ@Tlon, the Telecom Italia Solution for Cooperative Digital Learning ...... 117
  Giovanna Chiozzi, Telecom Italia S.p.A., Italy
  Giovanni Nassi, Telecom Italia S.p.A., Italy

Chapter 12
Digital Teens: An Investigation into the Use of the Web by Adolescents................................. 129
  Simona Maria Cavagnero, Università di Torino, Italy
  Maria Adelaide Gallina, Università di Torino, Italy
  Renato Grimaldi, Università di Torino, Italy

Chapter 13
Co-Operative E-Learning in the Multilingual and Multicultural School: The Role of “Classroom 2.0” for Increasing Participation in Education .......................................................... 137
  Jonathan Bishop, European Parliament, Belgium

Section 2
  Education towards Active Citizenship, Life Skills, and Social Competences in Schools for Lifelong Learning and Students’ Empowerment

Chapter 14
Educating to Democracy and Social Participation through a “History of Religion” Course .......... 152
  Mariachiara Giorda, Università degli Studi di Torino, Italy
  Marina Guerrisi, Università degli Studi di Torino, Italy

Chapter 15
The History of Religions as a Tool for Citizenship Education of Children: An Experience in a Primary School.............................................................................................................. 162
  Mariachiara Giorda, Università di Torino, Italy
  Giulia Nardini, Università di Roma Tre, Italy
  Beatrice Nuti, Università La Sapienza di Roma, Italy

Chapter 16
“Learning from One Another” eTwinning Project: A Model of an Intercultural Approach to Using ICT in Foreign Language Teaching .................................................................................. 170
  Maria da Piedade Carvalho da Silva, Escola Secundária Frei Rosa Viterbo do Agrupamento de Escolas de Sátão, Portugal & Universidade Católica Portuguesa - Centro Regional das Beiras, Portugal

Chapter 17
An Innovative Way of Learning through the Use of the Interactive Whiteboard within a Cooperative Learning Context .......................................................... 182
  Sabrina Campregher, Free University of Bozen, Italy
Chapter 18
History of European Education from Euclid to Contemporary Times: Moving toward Cognitive Limits as the Foundation for Education in the Future ............................................................. 193
  G. G. Malinetskiy, IAM RAS, Russia
  O. N. Kapelko, RANEaPA under the President of the RF, Russia

Chapter 19
Lessons from the Emotivate Project for Increasing Take-Up of Big Society and Responsible Capitalism Initiatives ........................................................................................................ 208
  Jonathan Bishop, European Parliament, Belgium

Chapter 20
Implementing the EU Key Competences for Active Citizenship Teaching Latin-Italian Literature and Assessing Students ............................................................. 218
  Angelo Chiarle, Liceo Scientifico Statale Darwin, Italy

Chapter 21
Technologies to “Bridge the Gap” among Learning Contexts in Vocational Training ............ 247
  Elisa Motta, Swiss Federal Institute for Vocational Education and Training (SFIVET), Switzerland
  Elena Boldrini, Swiss Federal Institute for Vocational Education and Training (SFIVET), Switzerland
  Alberto Cattaneo, Swiss Federal Institute for Vocational Education and Training (SFIVET), Switzerland

Chapter 22
Succeeding Together: Cooperative Learning in an At-Risk School ..................................... 266
  Rosa Iaquinta, High-School Teacher, Italy

Chapter 23
Affordances and Challenges of Using iPods to Support Learning by English Language Learners at the Middle School Level ............................................................. 275
  Min Liu, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
  Jennifer Wivagg, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
  Erin Maradiegue, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
  Cesar C. Navarrete, The University of Texas at Austin, USA

Chapter 24
Expanding the Boundaries of Learning: The Role of Vocational Orientation ...................... 289
  Rosa Iaquinta, History Teacher, Italy
  Maria Antonietta Impedovo, Expert in Educational Psychology, Italy
Chapter 25
From Broadcasting to Transforming: The Social Construction of Knowledge for Understanding Lawfulness ................................................................. 298

Maria Antonietta Impedovo, Expert in Educational Psychology, Italy
Rosa Iaquinta, History Teacher, Italy

Chapter 26
The “Little Readers’ Circle”: Infectious Love for Reading in a Middle School Classroom ............ 307

Cecilia Costa, University of Turin, Italy
Elena Zezlina, University of London, UK

Chapter 27
Proverbial Storytelling and Lifelong Learning in the Home-School Dialogue ......................... 317

Mara Theodosopoulou, Researcher, Greece
Vana Papalois, Researcher, UK

Chapter 28
I Learn this Way! Educational Workshop for Dyslexic Students............................................. 327

Sabrina Fusi, Organization in Support of Dyslexia Genoa and Tigullio, Italy
Zara Mehrnoosh, Organization in Support of Dyslexia Genoa and Tigullio

Chapter 29
RESCUE: Improving Students’ Retention through Successful Relations at School .................. 336

Alida Favaretto, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy
Iola De Monte, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy
Carmela Billotta, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy

Chapter 30
Storytelling in Intercultural Education ..................................................................................... 353

Rosa Tiziana Bruno, Writer and Teacher, Italy

Chapter 31
Music Composition for Creative Thinking: An Educational Experience Based on Creative Process ........................................................................................................... 364

Maria Maddalena Erman, C.I.D.M. NaturalMenteMusica, Italy

Chapter 32
How to Bring Together Two Generations so Distant in Age, yet so Close by Heart: A Case Study of the LAGR Project ........................................................................................................... 379

Helga Fiorani, Primary School Teacher, Italy

Chapter 33
Does the One Who Asks the Question Lead the Way? ............................................................. 388

Max Liebscht, Zittau/Goerlitz University of Applied Sciences, Germany
Sebastian Wahren, Zittau/Goerlitz University of Applied Sciences, Germany
Chapter 34
Territorial Knowledge, National Identities, Social Media, a Case Study: 150DIGIT - Italy of Schools................................................................................................................................................398
Luca Toschi, Università degli Studi di Firenze, Italy
Stefania Chipa, Università degli Studi di Firenze, Italy
Gianluca Simonetta, Università degli Studi di Firenze, Italy

Chapter 35
Strategies and Technologies for the Future Success of Students at School ........................................408
S. Macchia, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy
D. Bossolasco, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy
A. Fornasero, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy

Chapter 36
New Technologies to Support Educational Inclusion ...........................................................................419
S. Macchia, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy
D. Bossolasco, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy
A. Fornasero, “Giovanni Arpino” Institute, Italy

Chapter 37
Making Identity Visible: The Case of the “Museum in a Suitcase” .......................................................426
Dalya Yafa Markovich, Beit Berl College, Israel

Chapter 38
Legality, Citizenship, and the Constitution in the Earthquake Area......................................................436
Angelo Venti, Libera L’Aquila, Italy
Cristina Iovenitti, Libera L’Aquila, Italy

Chapter 39
Research Learning of the Environmental Subjects in Case of Educational Polygons in Slovenia..... 442
Jerneja Križan, University of Maribor, Slovenia
Ana Vovk Korže, University of Maribor, Slovenia
Nina Hriberšek, University of Maribor, Slovenia
Moja Kokot Krajnc, University of Maribor, Slovenia
Nina Globovnik, University of Maribor, Slovenia

Chapter 40
Experiences of Cooperative Learning and Social Learning to Manage Test Anxiety .........................454
Mirko Lamberti, University Popular Trentino, Italy

Chapter 41
Theater School: Students as Actors and Writers for the Stage..............................................................462
Maria Antonella Perrotta, University of Molise, Italy
Chapter 42
Let’s Make a Try!........................................................................................................................................ 473

Andrea Crawford, Coop Soc. Arké/L’Impronta, Italy
Agostino Gotti, Rugby Bergamo 1950, Italy

Volume II

Section 3
University Education and Teacher Training

Chapter 43
The GeoGebra Institute of Torino, Italy: Research, Teaching Experiments, and Teacher Education ........................................................................................................................................ 492

Ornella Robutti, Università di Torino, Italy

Chapter 44
Teacher Training and Social Media: Using a Multi-Author Blog for Lifelong Learning.......................... 503

Laura Fedeli, University of Macerata, Italy

Chapter 45
Integrating the Real and Virtual World for Academic Language Education in Second Life .................. 514

Carmela Dell’Aria, University of Palermo, Italy

Chapter 46

Maria Slowey, Dublin City University, Ireland
Ekaterina Kozina, Dublin City University, Ireland

Chapter 47
Role Teacher: Teaching/Learning Competencies in a European Scenario .................................................. 540

Alida Favaretto, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy
Iola De Monte, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy
Carmela Billotta, ITST Andrea Palladio, Italy

Chapter 48
WebCEF: An Online Collaboration Tool for Assessing Foreign Language Proficiency ......................... 559

Lut Baten, KULeuven, Leuven Language Institute, Belgium
Ana Beaven, Università di Bologna CILTA, Italy
John Osborne, Université de Savoie, LLS France
Jan Van Maele, Leuven Engineering College, Belgium
Chapter 49
A Model for Effective Delivery of Online Instruction .......................................................... 571

Lynn Romeo, Monmouth University, USA
Mary Brennan, Monmouth University, USA
Terri Rothman Peters, Monmouth University, USA
Donna Mitchell, Monmouth University, USA

Chapter 50
The Prospects for Teaching in Virtual Worlds ................................................................. 581

Gianni Panconesi, For.com, Italy

Chapter 51
Theory of Nuclear Concepts: A New Approach to Understand and Represent Cognitive Structures .......................................................................................................................... 591

Luis M. Casas García, Universidad de Extremadura, Spain
Vítor J. Godinho Lopes, Universidad de Extremadura, Spain
Ricardo Luengo González, Universidad de Extremadura, Spain
Sofia M. Veríssimo Catárreia, Universidad de Extremadura, Spain
José L. Torres Carvalho, Universidad de Extremadura, Spain

Chapter 52
The Collaborative Gap: A Case Study of Interdisciplinary Design Education ...................... 605

K. Thomas McPeek, University of Central Florida, USA
Laura M. Morthland, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, USA

Chapter 53
Microteaching in Teacher Education through the Students’ Perspective ................................ 620

Konstantinos D. Chatzidimou, Democritus University of Thrace, Greece

Chapter 54
Google’s Applications for Undergraduate University Courses: Tools for Sharing, Communication, and Collaboration ............................................................................................................. 632

Despo Ktoridou, University of Nicosia, Cyprus
Nikleia Eteokleous, Frederick University, Cyprus
Ioanna Dionysiou, University of Nicosia, Cyprus

Chapter 55
Tutoring: Between Future Teachers Stakes and Perspective in a Potential Learning Process ...... 646

Philippe Remy, Haute Ecole Paul-Henri SPAAK, Belgium

Chapter 56
The Role of Teacher Self-Strategies in First Year Teacher Experience and Teacher Socialisation .... 654

Ekaterina Kozina, Dublin City University, Ireland
Aidan Seery, Trinity College, University of Dublin, Ireland
Andrew Loxley, Trinity College, University of Dublin, Ireland
Chapter 57
Blended Learning towards Social Capital in Higher Education ................................. 664
   Michela Freddano, University of Genoa, Italy

Chapter 58
Improving Learning Strategies for Mathematics through E-Learning  ....................... 673
   Cristina Bardelle, Università del Piemonte Orientale A. Avogadro, Italy

Chapter 59
Discussion Board Assignments and their Impact on Creating Engaged Learning Environment in Art History Online Courses ................................................................. 681
   Anahit Ter-Stepanian, Southern Connecticut State University, USA

Chapter 60
E-Learning at Politecnico di Torino: Moving to a Sustainable Large-Scale Multi-Channel System of Services ................................................................. 690
   Salvatore Barbagallo, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Roberto Bertonasco, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Fulvio Corno, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Laura Farinetti, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Marco Mezzalama, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Matteo Sonza Reorda, Politecnico di Torino, Italy
   Enrico Venuto, Politecnico di Torino, Italy

Chapter 61
eTwinning Project: A Virtual Orchestra ........................................................................ 703
   Livia Casamassima, Istituto Comprensivo di Ferrandina (Matera), Italy

Section 4
Logical-Mathematical Competences and Second Language Competences

Chapter 62
High School Students’ Argument Patterns in Online Peer Feedback .......................... 711
   Lisbeth Amhag, Malmö University, Sweden

Chapter 63
Computer-Based Mathematics Instructions with MATCOS: A Pedagogical Experiment ................................................................. 724
   Francesco Aldo Costabile, University of Calabria, Italy
   Annarosa Serpe, University of Calabria, Italy

Chapter 64
In Links We Trust: Net-Like Strategic Reading in L2 Learning Context ........................ 739
   Sara Costa, E. Medi Secondary School, Italy & Bologna University, Italy
Chapter 65
Proposing Jig Saw Method to Teach Latin Literary Texts in Small Classes .................................................. 753
   Andrea Balbo, Università di Torino, Italy

Chapter 66
A Math E-Learning Course to Improve Pupils’ Performances ................................................................. 763
   Sandro Gallea, Istituto Tecnico Commerciale Statale Libero Grassi, Italy
   Roberto Gallea, DICGIM Università degli Studi di Palermo, Italy

Chapter 67
Hands-On Math in Kindergarten ............................................................................................................... 772
   Helga Fiorani, Primary School Teacher, Italy

Chapter 68
The Toolbox: Objects and Tools for Doing Mathematics ........................................................................ 783
   Alessio Drivet, Teacher of Applied Mathematics, Italy

Chapter 69
Why this Silence? ...................................................................................................................................... 792
   Eduardo Caianiello, Eironeia, Italy

Chapter 70
Don’t Trash Your Spam! Reasoning on Spam as a Way to Train Critical Thinking .................................. 803
   Manuela Delfino, Scuola sperimentale secondaria di I grado “don Milani” - Genova, Italy

Chapter 71
Physics and Creative Thinking Connected by “Bit” .................................................................................... 810
   Silva Pavani, Liceo Statale Balzan Badia Polesine Rovigo, Italy

Chapter 72
Active Learning of Science in the European Dimension ........................................................................ 821
   Maria Guida, Liceo Scientifico G. Salvemini, Italy

Compilation of References ......................................................................................................................... lxxxiii

About the Contributors ............................................................................................................................... cxxvi

Index ............................................................................................................................................................ clv