Acknowledgment

I personally would like to thank all the authors and reviewers for their great efforts on this successful book. Authors are the source of this book and their efforts are performed to offer their best contributions to enlarge the frontiers of knowledge and share their contributions to the state-of-art with readers. It is also very important to note here that the high quality of the content is guaranteed by the enormous contributions from the reviewers that carefully examined the chapters. Furthermore, we need to recognize and extend our congratulations to our editorial team from IGI Global because, without their tremendous efforts, this book would not have been possible to edit and publish. They had the patience and experience to guide this process to fruition. Many thanks! Hope readers also enjoy it.
