Managing Business in a Multi-Channel World: Success Factors for E-Business

Table of Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Preface</th>
<th>vii</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SECTION I. MULTI-CHANNEL PERSPECTIVES</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter I. Introduction: Toward Seamless Multi-Channel Services</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Veikko Hara, TeliaSonera AB, Sweden</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Karri Mikkonen, TeliaSonera AB, Sweden</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Timo Saarinen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jarkko Vesa, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Chapter II. Developing Consumer Preference-Profiles as a Basis for Multi-Channel Service Concepts | 17       |
| Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland                   |          |
| Anssi Öörni, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland                      |          |
| Anu Raijas, University of Helsinki, Finland                             |          |

| Chapter III. Consumer and Merchant Adoption of Mobile Payment Solutions | 32       |
| Niina Mallat, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland                     |          |
| Tomi Dahlberg, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland                    |          |

| Chapter IV. Objectives of Search and Combination of Information Channels in Electronic Consumer Markets: An Explorative Study | 51       |
| Anssi Öörni, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland                      |          |
Chapter V. Consumers on the Road from E-Communication to E-Shopping ................................................................. 69
   Kari Elkelä, Finland Post Corporation, Finland
   Tuomas Kokkonen, Finland Post Corporation, Finland
   Heikki Nikali, Finland Post Corporation, Finland

Chapter VI. The Effects of Digital Marketing on Customer Relationships ........................................................................ 89
   Marko Merisavo, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter VII. Strategy Turned into Action: A Case from Global Implementation of B2B E-Business ................................. 105
   Magnus Holmqvist, Volvo Information Technology and Viktoria Institute, Sweden
   Kalevi Pessi, Göteborg University and Viktoria Institute, Sweden

Chapter VIII. Opportunities and Challenges for B2B Manufacturing Firms: Moving from Products to Services-Case SKF ........ 119
   Esko Penttinen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
   Timo Saarinen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter IX. Shifting Perspective from Design to Business: Extending the Scope from Spectators to Stakeholders .................. 130
   Andreas Nilsson, Viktoria Institute, Sweden

SECTION II. MARKETS, STRATEGIES AND NETWORKS-HOW TO SUCCEED IN E-BUSINESS

Chapter X. Mobile Games: Emerging Content Business Area ........ 147
   Tommi Pelkonen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XI. Digital Television and Multi-Channel in Europe .......... 161
   Janne Orava, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
   Mika Perttula, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XII. Case of Monopolies at Stake: Strategies for Gambling Market ................................................................. 171
   Juha Laine, Helsinki University of Technology, Finland
   Jukka Heikkilä, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Chapter XIII. Serving Customers in a Hybrid World: Multi-Channel Strategies in Retailing ................................................... 183
Claas Müller-Lankenau, University of Münster, Germany
Kai Wehmeyer, University of Münster, Germany
Stefan Klein, University College Dublin, Ireland

Chapter XIV. Describing the Critical Factors for Creating Successful Mobile Data Services ............................................................ 204
Anne Tseng, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Jukka Kallio, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XV. Channel Choices and Revenue Logics of Software Companies Developing Mobile Games ................................................. 220
Risto Rajala, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Matti Rossi, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Virpi Kristiina Tuunainen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Janne Vihinen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XVI. The Role of Business Models in Developing Business Networks ................................................................................... 235
Jukka Heikkilä, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Marikka Heikkilä, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XVII. Are Multi-Channel Technologies Adopted in Online Consumer Auction Markets in Finland? .................................. 250
Jarkko Vesa, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Eric van Heck, Erasmus University’s Rotterdam School of Management, The Netherlands

SECTION III. ENVISIONING THE FUTURE OF THE DIGITAL WORLD

Chapter XVIII. The Changing Role of Middle-Men Infomediaries ........................................................................................................... 269
Mirella Lähteenmäki, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XIX. Meeting the Demands of Wide-Audience End Users ............................................................................................................. 281
Ken Peffers, University of Nevada, USA
Tuure Tuunanen, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
Chapter XX. Envisioning the Future of a Multi-Channel World by 2020 .......................................................... 295
  Markku Tinnilä, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland
  Theresa Lauraeus-Niinivaara, Helsinki School of Economics, Finland

Chapter XXI. Multi-Channel Services of the Future ....................... 309
  Jari Manninen, TeliaSonera, Finland
  Marja-Liisa Viherä, TeliaSonera, Finland

Chapter XXII. Channel Surfing: The Challenge and Opportunity of Channel Management in a Networked World ......................... 321
  Jonathan Palmer, College of William & Mary, USA

About the Authors .................................................................................. 334

Index .......................................................................................................... 344