Table of Contents

Foreword ....................................................................................................................................................xv

Preface ....................................................................................................................................................... xviii

Section 1
Current Demonstrations and Developments in the Field of Mobile Pedagogy

Chapter 1
Towards a Mobile Learning Pedagogy .................................................................................................. 1
  Scott E. Hamm, Abilene Christian University, USA
  Jason Drysdale, University of Colorado Denver, USA
  Diana Moore, New England College, USA

Chapter 2
Student Development of E-Workbooks: A Case for Situated-Technology Enhanced Learning (STEL)
Using Net Tablets ........................................................................................................................................ 20
  Selena Chan, Christchurch Polytechnic Institute of Technology, New Zealand
  Katrina Fisher, Christchurch Polytechnic Institute of Technology, New Zealand
  Peter Sauer, Christchurch Polytechnic Institute of Technology, New Zealand

Chapter 3
Podcasting and Pedagogy ....................................................................................................................... 41
  Ross Kendall, Waikato Institute of Technology, New Zealand

Chapter 4
Communities of Communication: Using Social Media as Medium for Supporting Teacher
Interpersonal Development ......................................................................................................................... 58
  Laurie Stone Rogers, Stephen F. Austin State University, USA

Chapter 5
E-Book Readers for Everyone: Fatih Project .......................................................................................... 74
  Nilgün Özdamar Keskin, Anadolu University, Turkey
  Firat Sarsar, Georgia State University, USA
  Michael Sean Gallagher, Institute of Education, UK
Section 2
Research, Theory, and Practice with Mobile Pedagogy and Differentiated Instruction

Chapter 6
Mobile Learning for All: Accessibility Considerations for Mobile Pedagogy ......................................................... 88
Luis F. Pérez, University of South Florida, USA
Ezzard Bryant, University of South Florida, USA

Chapter 7
Mobile Learning Applications and Differentiated Instruction ..................................................................................... 108
Shelley A. Jackson, Texas Woman’s University, USA
Sharla Snider, Texas Woman’s University, USA
Nicole Masek, Texas Woman’s University, USA
Joanne Baham, Texas Woman’s University, USA

Chapter 8
Does Mobile Technology Have a Place in Differentiated Instruction? ................................................................. 132
Therese M. Cumming, University of New South Wales, Australia

Chapter 9
Mobile Technology and Differentiated Learning: Meeting the Needs of Students with Significant Disabilities ................................................................. 150
Ann C. Orr, Eastern Michigan University, USA
John F. Conley, Eastern Michigan University, USA

Chapter 10
A Multiple-Case Study Examining Teachers’ Use of iPod Touches in Their Pedagogical Practices for English Language Learners ............................................................................................................. 165
M. Liu, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
C. Navarrete, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
E. Maradiegue, The University of Texas at Austin, USA
J. Wivagg, The University of Texas at Austin, USA

Section 3
Implications for Emergent and Innovative Applications of Mobile Pedagogy

Chapter 11
New Demands of Reading in the Mobile Internet Age ............................................................................................ 187
Byeong-Young Cho, Iowa State University, USA
Lindsay Woodward, Iowa State University, USA
Chapter 12
iTeach Literacy with iPad Devices: Preparing Teachers for Effective Classroom Integration........... 205
  Diane Santori, West Chester University, USA
  Carol Smith, West Chester University, USA
  Heather Schugar, West Chester University, USA

Chapter 13
Journalism and Media: From Mellowed Pedagogy to New Mobile Learning Tools...................... 221
  Pamela E. Walck, Ohio University, USA
  Yusuf Kalyango, Ohio University, USA

Chapter 14
Stuck in Neutral: Why Technology Hasn’t Made Major Inroads Into Education in Ghana............ 238
  Mawuadem Koku Amedeker, University of Education, Ghana

Chapter 15
An ROI Ed-Biz Approach for Deploying Mobile Pedagogy ......................................................... 250
  Douglas McConatha, West Chester University of Pennsylvania, USA

Compilation of References ........................................................................................................... 268

About the Contributors ................................................................................................................ 300

Index........................................................................................................................................... 308