Table of Contents

Foreword ........................................................................................................................................... xviii
Preface .................................................................................................................................................. xx
Acknowledgment .............................................................................................................................. xxvi

Section 1
Polymodal Education in a Digital Age

Chapter 1
Cyborgs and Cyberpunks: Implications of Digital Literacies in Schooling ............................................ 1
Douglas J. Loveless, James Madison University, USA

Chapter 2
Digital Literacy and the Emergence of Technology-Based Curriculum Theories ................................. 15
Melissa N. Mallon, Wichita State University, USA
Donald L. Gilstrap, Wichita State University, USA

Chapter 3
Speed Bump vs. Road Kill on the Fiber-Optic Highway: Teacher Self-Perception in the Information Age ..................................................................................................................................... 30
Margaret E. Bérci, College of Staten Island/CUNY, USA

Chapter 4
Philosophical Guidelines for the Social Studies: Enhancing Intelligence with Digital Tools and Artifacts ........................................................................................................................................... 53
Daniel W. Stuckart, Lehman College/CUNY, USA

Chapter 5
Teaching and Learning Fused through Digital Technologies: Activating the Power of the Crowd in a University Classroom Setting ......................................................................................................... 71
Xiaohong Yang, Hangzhou Normal University, China
Chapter 6
Designing for Computational Expression: Four Principles for the Design of Learning Environments towards Computational Literacy ................................................................. 86
  David Weintrop, Northwestern University, USA
  Uri Wilensky, Northwestern University, USA

Section 2
Perspectives on the Preparation of Teachers of Multimodal-Age Learners

Chapter 7
Preservice Teachers’ Knowledge Construction with Technology ...................................................... 112
  George Zhou, University of Windsor, Canada
  Judy Xu, University of Windsor, Canada

Chapter 8
Multimodality in the Preparation of Teachers of the Social Studies ................................................. 128
  Margaret E. Bérci, College of Staten Island/CUNY, USA

Chapter 9
Building Knowledge: Implementing PBL and Using Mobile Apps as an Approach to Learning ...... 164
  Samuel B. Fee, Washington and Jefferson College, USA

Chapter 10
Preparing Preservice Teachers to Thread Literacy across the Curriculum with Blogging and Digital Storytelling .................................................................................................................. 178
  Pamela Sullivan, James Madison University, USA
  Natalie Gainer, Greene County Public Schools, USA

Chapter 11
Identifying the Applicable Nature of Social Media as Tools for Advancing Preservice Teachers’ Epistemologies .................................................................................................................... 190
  Stephanie Grote-Garcia, The University of the Incarnate Word, USA
  Norman St. Clair, The University of the Incarnate Word, USA
  Elda Martinez, The University of the Incarnate Word, USA
  Bobbie Holmes St. Clair, The University of the Incarnate Word, USA

Chapter 12
Emergent Digital Literacy and Mobile Technology: Preparing Technologically Literate Preservice Teachers through a Multisensory Approach ................................................................. 203
  Helen Mele Robinson, College of Staten Island/CUNY, USA
Section 3
Digital Literacies in Reading Education

Chapter 13
Fostering Early Literacy Skills with Technology ......................................................... 219
   Pamela Sullivan, James Madison University, USA
   Marianne Baker, James Madison University, USA

Chapter 14
Teaching Literacy through Technology in the Middle School: A Case Study .................. 230
   Sharon E. Green, International Hong Kong Middle School, Hong Kong
   Mason Gordon, International Hong Kong Middle School, Hong Kong

Chapter 15
The Use of Digital Story Expressions with Adolescents to Promote Content Area Literacy .... 243
   Laurie McAdams, Tarleton State University, USA
   James Gentry, Tarleton State University, USA

Chapter 16
Study Skills in the Digital Age ....................................................................................... 256
   Valerie J. Robnolt, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA
   Joan A. Rhodes, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA

Chapter 17
Interweaving the Digital and Physical Worlds in Collaborative Project-Based Learning Experiences ........................................................................................................... 265
   Michelle E. Jordan, Arizona State University, USA

Chapter 18
Preparing Intermediate and Secondary Teachers of Reading Today: Apprenticeship Models with Emerging Tools ................................................................. 283
   Katie Dredger, Virginia Tech, USA

Section 4
Digital Media and Educational Research

Chapter 19
A Second Life in Qualitative Research: Creating Transformative Experiences ................. 301
   Kakali Bhattacharya, Kansas State University, USA

Chapter 20
Framing Complexity: Digital Animation as Participatory Research .................................. 327
   Douglas J. Loveless, James Madison University, USA
   Aaron Bodle, James Madison University, USA
Chapter 21
Digital Icarus? Negotiating the (Dis)Advantages of Video in Research Settings in the Digital Era.................................................................339

Dino Sossi, Columbia University, USA

Chapter 22
Understanding Students’ Perspectives as Learners through Photovoice ........................................357

Teresa Harris, James Madison University, USA
Miemsie Steyn, University of Pretoria, South Africa

Chapter 23
Of Embodiment and Ether: Masculinities and Negotiating an Understanding of Complex Communities.................................................................376

Jim Burns, South Dakota State University, USA

Afterword...........................................................................................................................................395

Compilation of References ..................................................................................................406

About the Contributors ........................................................................................................449

Index....................................................................................................................................................457